Capt. G. MacKenzie Will Attempt Pacific Flight Canadian Flier to Have U.S. Woman As Co-pilot On Voyage

Popular Pilot on Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle Service Will Hop Off From Tokio in July, 1932, on Non-stop Flight to Seattle; Will Use Twin-motored Plane With Cruising Speed of 180 Miles an Hour; Plane Will Be Equipped With Gear for Forced Landing on Water

Plans for a non-stop airplane flight across the Pacific from Tokio to Seattle in July, 1932, were announced today by Capt. Gordon MacKenzie, A.F.C., regular pilot in the service of the Alaska-Washington Airways of British Columbia. MacKenzie, who is a veteran pilot with sixteen and a half years' flying to his credit, will pilot the plane with a prominent United States aviatrix as co-pilot. The latter is making financial plans for the attempt and all preliminary arrangements have been completed.

It is planned to follow the Great Circle, the route used by trans-Pacific liners making the trip from Victoria to Yokohama.

MacKenzie and his partner will use a twin-motored ship with a cruising speed of 180 miles an hour and a top speed of 210. MacKenzie stated today he figured the trip would take, with good weather prevailing, between twenty-eight and thirty hours. The pair will have to travel approximately 4,200 miles. Their plane will carry 2,100 gallons of gasoline, capable of taking them a maximum distance of 6,500 miles and 180 persons of weight.

TWO 500 HORSEPOWER MOTORS
The plane will be equipped with two supercharged 500 horsepower Wasp "D" type motors, capable of developing 2,200 revolutions at 7,000 feet. The motors will "rev" at 1,850 for a cruising speed. The ship will also be equipped with all the latest devices for blind flying. This will be a great aid if MacKenzie and his partner are forced to fly through fog or storms. The ship will also be equipped with radio so as to keep in touch with land stations and ships. In this manner a close check will be possible on their progress.

The plane will also be equipped with emergency equipment for landing on water. This is a precaution in case of a forced landing on the Pacific. Although he will be able to land on water it will be impossible to get off again. The plane will take off on wheels but these will fold up alongside the emergency pontoon once the ship is in the air.

The east to west route has been chosen in view of the following winds and also that MacKenzie and his partner will be flying into daylight. On this route the pair will only be forced to fly in about five hours of darkness. Flying from the Pacific Coast to Japan they would have to travel through approximately twenty-five hours of darkness.

LOCKOUT REPLY IN PERU STRIKE

Lima, Peru, May 28.—Advices from Talara to-day said the International Petroleum Company, Canadian subsidiary of Standard Oil, had declared a lockout following a strike declared without warning by workmen. Other oil field employees followed suit in declaring a lockout, Talara reports said. Officials of the International Petroleum Company were reported to be awaiting instructions from their home office at Toronto, Ont.

The manager of the company, in an interview, to-day said the workmen had struck without giving previous warning, which is required according to labor legislation. He said also laborers were being influenced by foreign agitators.

The Prefect at Talara announced he had received instructions to protect the lives and property, using forces of the army, marines and the crew of the cruiser Bolognes, should workmen show signs of again starting a riot.

PARTY SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT DRAWS COMMENT

No Fundamental Questions Dividing Opinions in B.C., Says Province

Victoria Resolution Prompts Vancouver Editorial on High Cost of Government

Abolition of party government in British Columbia, based on the argument that all the province needs is an honest, efficient, aggressive, forward-looking business administration which experience has shown one party is as capable of giving as the other, is advocated in an editorial in The Vancouver Daily Province following a resolution passed at a ward meeting of Conservatives in Victoria.

The Victoria resolution, after calling attention to the high cost of government in British Columbia, recommended the membership of the Provincial Legislature be reduced from 48 to 20.

"The point is very well taken. We not only have more legislatures in Canada than we really need. The legislatures themselves are unnecessarily unwieldy and unnecessarily costly," the editorial says. It proceeds: "The larger a Legislature, the more members there are to air their views and the longer the sessions spin out. But that is the least of the disadvantages of the big Legislature brings. If the Legislature is large, the cabinet will be large, and as each minister thinks he must be

Many Prominent Residents Ask Prosecutor to Keep Their Names Out of Papers

Kansas City, Mo., May 28.—The comprehensive bookkeeping system of an alleged Al Capone liquor syndicate which collapsed here Tuesday with the arrest of nearly forty persons was a source of concern to-day to men listed as its patrons.

Sachet Keyes, assistant district attorney, announced that with reports that such a system had been solved, dozens of persons had appealed to him for immunity from publicity. He said they included men of high social, business and professional standing and one clergyman.

The prosecutor reported he had made no promises, indicating they would be called as government witnesses in the event the cases come to trial.

C.N.R. CHANGES MEAN SAVING OF BIG SUMS

Train Service Cuts and Abolition of Posts Total $5,000,000 a Year

Montreal, May 28.—Reduction in expenditures of various departments of the Canadian National Railways will bring about a saving of approximately $5,000,000 a year. It was authoritatively stated at headquarters of the system here to-day.

Reductions in various train services, which have been made throughout the system, are responsible for the chief item among the savings listed, it is stated. By reducing train operation without unduly impairing service to the different communities served by Canadian National lines, the company has been able to effect savings which will amount to more than $6,000,000 in the course of the year.

DISTRICTS NOT SUFFERING
The curtailment of train service, involving a total of some 3,350,000 passenger train miles a year, is stated to be probably the most drastic reduction made by any railroad. While this reduction is so extensive, careful study preceded each curtailment, so the communities served have not been made to suffer from lack of rapid and frequent transportation service.

Coincident with the savings of train miles operated are savings in sleeping and dining car operations which amount to an important figure in the year's economies, while important economies in the traffic and advertising departments and in personal activities have also contributed largely to the savings effected over the period since sharp revenue curtailment began to be effected (Concluded on page 2)

Next Monday Chosen As Budget Address Day In the Commons

Premier Bennett Tells Members He Expects to Outline Taxation Proposals Then; Asks King to Decide When Debate Will Begin

Ottawa, May 28.—The budget will be presented in the Commons next Monday. Announcement of this was made by Premier Bennett this afternoon.

The Prime Minister, who is also Minister of Finance, explained he had told the House he would bring down the budget before June, but the last day of May fell on Sunday and there had been certain delays due to the lateness of arrival of a cable from one of the dominions, and also due to the great amount of physical work involved in the preparation of the budget. He hoped the House would not think he had failed in his undertaking as to when the budget would be brought down.

DATE OF DEBATE
He would leave it to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the official opposition, to decide when the debate on it would be started—whether on the following Thursday or some other date.

FLIERS' BOMBS WERE MISTAKES

U.S. Army Airmen Miss West Point and Disturb Columbia Upper Manhattan Island

New York, May 28.—United States army officials to-day were investigating the dropping of two flashlight bombs from an airplane yesterday evening which rocked buildings and broke windows near the Columbia University section at the Hudson River. The bombs, it was reported, were dropped from an army observation plane manned by Capt. A. W. Stevens and Lieut. John Corbille, who left Mitchell Field on a night photographic expedition. Their orders, army authorities said, were to drop the light bombs and photograph West Point while over the Hudson.

The university section was jarred as two brilliant lights flashed from the sky. Mrs. John Valenda of Riverside Drive reported to police the explosion knocked her to the floor. She was treated by a physician. The bombs used each contained twenty-five sticks of flashlight power, capable of producing a 3,000,000 candlepower flare.

Seedgrowers Given Hearty Welcome By Premier and Mayor

Sixth Annual Pacific States Association Convention Opened This Morning at Empress Hotel; President A. M. Hand Warns Co-operation Essential to Progress

The sixth annual convention of the Pacific States Seed Growers' Association opened this morning at the Empress Hotel, and is expected to be attended by 150 of the leading seed growers, wholesalers and retailers of Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon and Washington. In addition a large number of British Columbia seed and bulb growers will be present as visitors, it being expected that arrangements will be made during the convention for inclusion of this province within scope of the Association.

At this morning's session only the three Pacific Coast states were represented, the delegates from the more distant states being expected to arrive this afternoon. Albert M. Hand of Portland, president, opened this morning's proceedings by introducing Premier Tolmie and Mayor Ansonby, who respectively endorsed provincial and civic welcome to the convention. The Premier thanked the delegates for holding their proceedings in British Columbia, and said all facilities of the Department of Agriculture were at the disposal of the delegates. He expressed the hope that the good feeling existing between the two peoples would continue to grow as a result of such gatherings.

Pointing out that good seed was essential to good farming, Dr. Tolmie said of the production by the Dominion Experimental Farms at Ottawa of Marquette, Reward and Garnet wheats. He declared that Vancouver Island had ideal conditions for seed production and pointed out that the Peace River district was the source of world championship prize-winning seeds. The Premier told of prospective opening of Northern British Columbia by (Concluded on page 2)

LONDON AREA IS SWEEPED BY HEAVY STORMS

Lightning Does Damage; Streets in Low Parts Flooded by Rain

London, May 28.—Violent electrical storms which swept southwestern England yesterday, flooding numerous districts and leaving a trail of damage, extended to London and vicinity to-day.

Thunderstorms broke over every part of the metropolitan area and lightning struck here and there. A girl was hit by one bolt and partly blinded. A torrential rain drenched thousands of pedestrians on their way to work, flooding streets in some of the low-lying sections.

MAN DROWNED
One man was drowned and three persons were struck by lightning in southern England and Wales yesterday evening.

In South Wales bridges were swept away, roads, fields and homes were flooded, and there were several landslides, one of which wrecked a colliery train injuring several miners. Old residents of Cardiff said it was the worst storm in their memory. Streets were rivers and homes and business places were under several feet of water.

FORCED LANDINGS
Two airplanes dropped down to forced landings in southern England. A Croydon-Le Bourget liner came down on a race track near St. Albans after dodging a thunder storm and running into a thick fog. There were no passengers and the crew was not hurt, but the landing gear and one of the wings were damaged. The other plane was a French biplane which landed without damage at Arnhem.

LOSSES IN FRANCE
The bad weather was not confined to the British Isles. High winds and heavy rain laid waste fields and gardens in the vicinity of Vendome, France, washing out roads and doing considerable damage to the fruit orchards.

British Columbia Liberal Leader-Delighted With Reception on Island Tour

Will Continue Campaign With Visit to Fraser Valley Next Week

At every point on Vancouver Island visited by T. D. Pattullo, British Columbia Liberal leader, and supporting speakers during a tour of Vancouver Island, crowds turned out to hear them and in some of the isolated districts members of the audience walked miles to the meeting, it was learned this morning, on the return of the party to Victoria.

Mr. Pattullo spoke at Combs, Alberni, Quathlatchi Cove, Courtenay, Cumberland, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Duncan and Sayward and was both delighted and touched with the cordiality of the receptions accorded him. At Quathlatchi Cove and Sayward there were members of the audience who had walked miles to the meetings and in the settlement of Sayward which is seeking badly-needed road connection to Campbell River, over a hundred persons attended the meeting.

At Alberni people were forced to sit on the stairs of the meeting hall and at Nanaimo the auditorium was crowded to capacity.

PREDICTS SUCCESSORS
There is not the slightest doubt that G. S. Peasant for Nanaimo and L. A. Hanna for Alberni will be returned to the Legislature with an overwhelming majority," Mr. Pattullo said this morning. "Judging from the reception we were given in Courtenay I predict the Liberals will win that seat at the next election."

The interest in public affairs was never greater recent it is at the present time. People are discussing them everywhere you go and the actions of the Tolmie government are continually under fire. Increased taxes have stirred (Concluded on page 2)

PENSIONS PLANS FOUND TOO SLOW

B.C. Branch of Canadian Legion Suggests Federal Government Speed Up

Canadian Press
New Westminster, May 28.—Declaring that the present rate of increase in the Pensions Act at Ottawa had been extremely slow, and that the legislation was not working out as beneficially or as satisfactorily as anticipated, the provincial convention of the Canadian Legion here to-day telegraphed a resolution to the Dominion executive of the legion seeking immediate vigorous action.

The convention asked for a more liberal working interpretation of the recent legislation and urged the "evident intention of parliament" be carried out in this respect.

More than forty resolutions dealing with pensions and treatment were placed before the convention. A resolution was also passed by the convention asking the incoming provincial executive to take immediate action on pensions and treatment. (Concluded on page 2)

ON-TO-SEA CONFERENCE AT HEAD OF GREAT LAKES

Port Arthur, Ont., May 28.—Delegates from many ports and inland centres here at noon to-day and opened the On-to-the-sea Conference, at which resolutions urging the Canadian and United States governments to hasten the St. Lawrence deep waterway project are expected to be passed.

Some of the sessions of the three-day convention will be held at Port William. In addition to the Canadian delegates, representatives are in attendance from numerous Minnesota and Wisconsin centres, speakers having come, prepared with interesting arguments in connection with the association's chief objective—deepening of the St. Lawrence so ocean vessels can penetrate to and navigate the Great Lakes.

BRITISH ENVOY TO JAPAN WILL VISIT VICTORIASir Francis Lindley Has Had Brilliant Career With British
Diplomatic CorpsNow Crossing Atlantic on Empress of Britain; to Sail From Here on Empress of Japan

A distinguished visitor to Victoria during June will be Sir Francis Lindley, P.C., K.C.M.G., C.B., C.B.E., newly appointed British Ambassador to Japan, who will sail from this port June 29 aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Japan to assume his official duties as His Majesty's representative in Tokyo. It is possible he will come to Victoria a day or two before the Empress sails and spend that time in Victoria and on Vancouver Island.

Sir Francis is now crossing the Atlantic on the new liner Empress of Britain. He is due in Quebec next Monday and will spend some time in eastern Canada before crossing the dominion. He will go to Ottawa from Quebec and will be the guest of Sir William Clark, British High Commissioner to Canada and Lady Clark at their beautiful Ottawa home, "Barncliffe."

He will also spend a few days on the prairies before coming to the coast. He is accompanied by Lady Lindley, who was the Hon. Elizabeth Mary Fraser, daughter of Lord Lovat.

Sir Francis Lindley has had a brilliant career with the diplomatic corps of Great Britain. Before going to London a few months ago to take his new appointment, he was ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Portugal, since early in 1929. He was born June 12, 1872, the fourth son of Sir John Lindley, a well-known member of the British nobility. He was educated at Winchester and Magdalen College, Oxford. He commenced his diplomatic career in 1898 when he was clerk at the British Foreign Office in London. Then he went to Vienna as the third secretary in the British Legation there. He went to Egypt early in 1902 and served in Tokyo in 1906. In 1911 he was in Sofia and from there went to Christiania. In 1915 he was appointed Counselor of the British Embassy at Petrograd. In 1918 he was His Majesty's Commissioner in Russia. After the war he was High Commissioner in Vienna, envoy extraordinary to Austria, Athens and Oslo.

He holds coronation medals of 1902, when the late King Edward was crowned, and of 1911 when King George ascended the throne.

kept busy, and must have a staff to supervise the civil service growth out of all proportion to the need for it.

EMPHASIZE PARTY SYSTEM
 "Large Legislatures, too, emphasize the party system. There is an organization in British Columbia which has for its object the elimination of party so far as the conduct of provincial affairs is concerned, and in its platform are many excellent planks. The affairs of a province like British Columbia are comparatively simple. There are no fundamental questions on which there is need of a division of opinion. All the province needs is an honest, efficient, aggressive, forward-looking business administration, and experience has shown that one party is as capable of giving it as another."

"So far as policies are concerned, the opposing parties are as nearly alike as peas in a pod. It is simply a question of a choice among individuals. It is true that in the British system of government, which follows party, the party is a factor in the selection of its place. But in our provincial assemblies in Canada we are driving it to absurd and illogical lengths. We emphasize party for the sake of party, not for the sake of any assistance it can give us in the work of government. And, of course, we must pay for it. Party divisions, where no party is necessary, are artificial excrencences. They slow business down. They create distrust and bickering where there should be confidence and harmony. They hinder the civil service by making party services rather than fitness the grounds for preferment."

There are several cities in Canada which have larger populations, larger budgets and more complex problems of government than several of the provinces. These cities see no need for party in the conduct of their affairs. The provinces have as little need."

Ottawa, May 28.—Decision to invite various branches of the Pacific coast halibut industry to appoint representatives on a conference board was reached when the International Fisheries Commission met here to-day.

Several resolutions were passed asking for more liberal treatment of British veterans resident in Canada. Appointment of an imperial pensions officer for western Canada by the British Ministry of Pensions was asked.

MAKING OF POPPIES
 Major S. H. Okeil, M.C., addressed the convention on the manufacture of poppies in the Red Cross workshop in Victoria. That shop, which was established ten years ago, was now the only one operated under the name of Veterans.

Last year throughout Canada more than 1,500,000 poppies were sold and more than 9,000 wreaths. With Ontario and Quebec, the British Columbia was third and far ahead of all other provinces. All poppies and wreaths for this province were made in the Victoria shop.

POSTS ABOLISHED
 Important economies have been made through the abolition of certain higher positions, brought about by the recent retirement or transfer of the officers formerly holding these posts.

The positions of two assistants to the president have been abolished with the transfer of their incumbents and in the case of a vice-president who recently retired, the position is abolished with his retirement and the department activities which were under his charge are divided among other departments. In other retirements, senior officials have been appointed successors to the retiring officers and the positions are abolished.

NEST COMPETITION
 In addition to effecting emergency economies in many ways, the management of the National Trust, it is stated, is making a vigorous attempt to meet the inroads on revenue made by other forms of transportation services as, for instance, motor buses and private automobiles. As an attempt to stimulate passenger train traffic, the railroad joined with other carriers in Canada in establishing, as an experiment, cheap week-end fares between points in the dominion.

Will Speak This Evening
at Luxton

W. Mellor of Nanaimo was elected president of the Nanaimo Federal Liberal Association at the annual meeting held in the Rex Hall at Duncan yesterday afternoon with a representative gathering from all parts of the island. T. D. Pattullo, leader of the opposition, addressed the meeting.

The full slate of officers elected was as follows: Honorary president, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King; honorary vice-presidents, T. D. Pattullo, Ian Macdonald, M.P., George S. Pearson, M.P., and C. H. O'Halloran; president, W. W. Walker, Ladysmith; Mrs. B. A. McMillan, Cobble Hill, and J. P. Mesher, Esquimalt, secretary-treasurer, W. E. Aikens, Ladysmith.

PATTULLO GETS RECEPTION
 T. D. Pattullo made a characteristic fighting speech in which he flayed the government for its glaring inefficiency and extravagance and was given a rousing reception by an enthusiastic gathering which filled the Rex Hall at Duncan in the evening. The Liberal leader was supported on the platform by George S. Pearson of Nanaimo, Major S. F. M. Moodie, Liberal organizer, and C. H. O'Halloran, George Savage acted as chairman.

construction of the Twilight Highway, asserting the proposed 500 miles of road building to be "a very practical undertaking" which would be a considerable criticism had been voiced against the project, he ascribed the opposition to ignorance and recalled similar projects against the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

CIVIC WELCOME
 Mayor Anson extended civic greetings in a speech which aroused prolonged applause. "An organization such as yours, which comes from south of the boundary, is particularly welcome as aiding in consolidating good feeling between the two peoples," he said. "I am particularly glad to welcome you, as I believe your organization is formed to benefit the consumer of seeds. Along the south of Vancouver Island we have been concerned with the production of food for export to Europe and other markets, and the quality and quantity of our product has been increasing tremendously."

Remarking that Portland was famed for roses and Victoria for dahlias, the Mayor said: "All the Pacific slope is concentrating on attraction of tourists, if anything will aid that work it is production of beautiful flowers, a work in which you can exert a great influence. The Mayor recommends the gardens of Victoria to the attention of the visitors before formally extending the freedom of the city to the delegates and their ladies."

James F. McEwen, vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, welcomed the convention on behalf of the businessmen of Victoria. Noting the lack of affiliation with any British Columbia organization, he expressed the hope that the delegates would be able to be formed during the convention.

L. M. Jeffers of Sacramento, of the Department of Agriculture of California, replied to the welcoming address and pointed out that much could be done by the association to raise the standard of seed production on the Pacific Coast.

L. W. Wheeler, of Gilroy, California, presented President Hand with the gavel used at the first meeting of the association six years ago at San Francisco. The gavel was an ordinary carpenter's hammer, and a gold plate had been inserted in the handle to commemorate the two decades of the tool.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT
 The business session this morning included a brief financial statement by Howard Jenks, secretary-treasurer, and the annual report of the president, in which Mr. Hand said the sixth annual meeting was held in Victoria under favorable conditions. He pointed out, reviewing recent changes in manufacturing and merchandising methods and the development of international competition for trade outlets.

CO-OPERATION URGED
 President Hand warned against selfishness as leading to practices which the public would no longer tolerate. The seed business was too large for control other than by close co-ordination made possible by loyalty to the association. "The challenge to industry to-day is whether we are going to meet the issue and solve it effectively, or whether we are going to invite someone else to do it for us," he said. "You are witnessing what is happening in Italy under a state dictator, Russia is practically the same only using a different political method. Our business problems can be successfully coped with without interference if we are willing to cast away our selfish ambitions and co-operate."

FINE SEEDS COST MORE
 The tremendous increase in commercial truck gardening and canning industry the responsibility of the seed trade, and brought to the front the question of quality. The increase of truck crops was due to increased demand for better quality and the seed trade must realize that a grower of quality seeds could not compete with the grower who took no pains to keep his seeds pure.

Unless the small truck grower took precaution to produce the finest quality economically and market his products in pleasing form, his day was done, the president feared. "The gardeners have proven so important in the stabilizing of business. To a large degree they have prevented more serious conditions," he pointed out, reviewing recent changes in manufacturing and merchandising methods and the development of international competition for trade outlets.

CO-OPERATION URGED
 President Hand warned against selfishness as leading to practices which the public would no longer tolerate. The seed business was too large for control other than by close co-ordination made possible by loyalty to the association. "The challenge to industry to-day is whether we are going to meet the issue and solve it effectively, or whether we are going to invite someone else to do it for us," he said. "You are witnessing what is happening in Italy under a state dictator, Russia is practically the same only using a different political method. Our business problems can be successfully coped with without interference if we are willing to cast away our selfish ambitions and co-operate."

 The tremendous increase in commercial truck gardening and canning industry the responsibility of the seed trade, and brought to the front the question of quality. The increase of truck crops was due to increased demand for better quality and the seed trade must realize that a grower of quality seeds could not compete with the grower who took no pains to keep his seeds pure.

Unless the small truck grower took precaution to produce the finest quality economically and market his products in pleasing form, his day was done, the president feared. "The gardeners have proven so important in the stabilizing of business. To a large degree they have prevented more serious conditions," he pointed out, reviewing recent changes in manufacturing and merchandising methods and the development of international competition for trade outlets.

EMPLOYMENT IN BRITAIN IS SHOWING GAIN

By George Hambleton, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

London, May 28.—Employment in Britain is improving. The Ministry of Labor's returns for the week ended May 16 show the smallest total of registered unemployed recorded this year. There were then 2,508,937 registered unemployed, including totally unemployed and those only temporarily out of work. The figure was 25,874 lower than the previous week, but 747,477 larger than the corresponding week of 1930.

The annual report of the executive council of the Amalgamated Engineering Union records the most severe unemployment situation in the union's history. In March the union's percentage of unemployment was 20.10 per cent of membership, compared with a percentage of 8.3 in May, 1930.

NEW METHODS

There are indications, although only slight in character, that an improvement in the state of trade is gradually taking place, the report observes. "What we should be concerned about is the best methods to adopt to prevent the existence of such a deplorable state. Means to that end would be a reduction in the number of working hours per week, and the elimination of overtime of production work." And while the engineers present a picture of only partially relieved gloom the building societies (mortgage societies operating largely on working-class savings) are paradoxically doing a booming business, particularly in the metropolitan area of London. Total assets of the Building Society movement are now estimated at more than $18,000,000.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE IS DISCUSSED

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 28.—Unemployment insurance could be worked out in better advantage in Canada than in any other country, Hon. Peter Heenan, M.P., former Liberal Minister of Labor, declared in addressing an Ottawa service club yesterday. "We are already well on the way to adoption of such a scheme," he added.

Under an unemployment insurance scheme, Mr. Heenan asserted, every man participating would have to register and, by extending registration points, all men out of work could register. If positions could be found for them they could be sent to them. If, however, any man did not want a job which had been found for him, he would not be allowed to participate further in the scheme.

Economic Recovery Plans Suggested

Washington, May 28.—Warning that less than normal spring employment gains indicate worse suffering in the United States next winter than last year, the problem is faced immediately was given yesterday by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Green offered a four-point programme for reducing distress and encouraging economic recovery, headed by the suggestion that employers guarantee continued work to as many of their employees as possible, "without taking undue risk."

He also proposed maintenance of wage levels, equitable distribution by industry of all available work among employees on a pro-rata basis and community organization for relief work.

Burglars Murder Man in Chicago

Chicago, May 28.—Slugged and strangled with a cord, Samuel Bloom, sixty-five, wealthy retired business man, was found dead yesterday evening in his home on the west side of Chicago.

Police said they discovered evidence he had been robbed and then slain by burglars, one of them a woman, who posed as prospective tenants of an apartment building he owned.

New Parliament Rule Is Debated

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 28.—Suggestion from the Senate that ministers of the Crown be permitted to come before either the Senate or the Commons to explain their legislation, without regard to which chamber the ministers belong to, will be laid before the government. Senator W. B. Willoughby, government leader in the second chamber, and Senator G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor, gave this undertaking in the Senate yesterday afternoon.

Senator Rodolphe Lemieux, whose resolution along these lines brought one of the longest debates in the Senate for some time, then withdrew his motion.

One of the obstacles to a minister with a seat in the Commons coming before the Senate was the time entailed, Senator George F. Graham explained.

NATIONALITY BILL DEBATED

Second Reading Given Citizenship Measure By House of Commons

Canadian Press

Ottawa, May 28.—Second reading was given in the Commons yesterday afternoon to the government bill to define Canadian nationality, sponsored by Hon. C. H. Cahan, Secretary of State. The bill, which received first reading two weeks ago, sets forth definitely the qualifications for Canadian nationality, and the process whereby a national of Canada may lose or renounce his nationality. If passed in the form presented to the House, it might necessitate amendments to the Immigration Act, Mr. Cahan said.

As the law now stood, said Mr. Cahan, a man who left Canada for a trip, and was delayed over a year, had to make his way into this country in just the same manner as an immigrant from Siberia or Turkistan. Missionaries sometimes brought up families in a foreign country, but could not claim Canadian nationality for their children. Some provision should be made to meet such a situation.

REMEMBRANCE DAY APPROVED

Ottawa, May 28.—After a prolonged discussion, a Senate committee yesterday approved the bill to fix permanently celebration of Remembrance Day on November 11. It would separate the observance of Thanksgiving Day and Armistice Day, fixing the latter on November 11 and leaving the former to be proclaimed on any day chosen by the Dominion Cabinet. The bill was sent to the Senate for final consideration.

Sun and Wind Bring Out Rusty-brown Spots. How to Remove Easily

Even the fairest-skinned woman need no longer dread the sun and wind. Though they cover her face with ugly freckles, she can easily and safely fade out these homely blemishes in the privacy of her home with Othine-double strength.

It is seldom that more than an ounce jar of Othine is needed to clear the skin of the ugly, rusty-brown spots. After a few nights' use of this dainty white cream you will see that even the worst freckles are disappearing while the lighter ones have vanished entirely.

Be sure to ask for Othine-double strength at any drug or department store. Money back if it does not remove even the freckles and leave your skin soft, clear and beautiful. (Adv.)

Columbia Professor Lauds Canada's Contribution to North America

Ottawa, May 27.—Canadian contributions to the cultural, social and economic development of North America, are often ignored, Professor J. Bartlett Brebner, head of the Canadian History Department of Columbia University, New York, told the Canadian Historical Association here today. "Canadian investors, scientists, artists and professional men have naturally carried their ideas to the largest North American market, and once there, no one has been concerned to separate their contributions from the general pattern of living."

The professor spoke of the contribution made to peacable colonization of Canada's prairies by the French race, which, by inter-marriage largely with the Indian people, had provided a "cushion or shock-absorber" between the aggressive energies of the invaders from the east and the old habits of the Indians of the west.

In the United States, he said, the process was an almost continuous chronicle of Indian wars and massacres, and the stage was full of desperadoes and vigilantes. In the case of Canada there was only one minor war. He also paid tribute to the great influence of the Roman Catholic Church exerted by the early French missionaries.

The contrast, he said, in law and order was also puzzling and it was not enough to credit it to the superiority of British ideals of law and justice or to the greater ability of the old Royal Northwest Mounted police, than that of the military commanders in the western United States.

Professor Brebner referred to "the greater willingness of Canadians to embark on large enterprises of state enterprise and operation of utilities than is characteristic in the United States. Canada and the United States showed remarkable good sense in the facilities which they have invented to regulate North America's greatest public utility, the St. Lawrence waterway system."

To those of the United States it may serve as a constant reminder that Canadians have been and are willing to pay the economic price for their separate political and social existence in North America, he said.

RUM RUNNING INQUIRY DEBATED

Ottawa, May 28.—Enlargement of the Quebec-St. Pierre-Miquelon rum ring inquiry to include the Maritime Provinces was suggested in the Senate yesterday by Senator J. J. Hughes, Liberal, Prince Edward Island. He was informed, he said, the government intended passing an order-in-council within a short time fixing the powers and scope of the investigation.

Short-circuiting of liquor cargoes from the islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon to isolated spots in Quebec was charged against the rum ring, Senator Hughes declared. The Federal Treasury, he was convinced, had been mulcted out of millions of dollars in excise duties, but he did not believe the activities of the ring were limited to the province of Quebec.

He: Won't you put me in charge of your proving grounds?

BUTTER

DURING THE FEDERAL ELECTION campaign it was reported that a large quantity of New Zealand butter had been brought into Quebec by opponents of the King government to depress the price and create antagonism against the Liberals in the rural districts. The electors were told that if they wanted butter to go up again and the dairy industry to thrive they should elect a Conservative government pledged to raise the tariff on all butter coming into Canada from the Antipodes. In many rural districts the prospect of fifty-cent and sixty-cent butter was dangled before them. All they had to do was to put Mr. Bennett in, and they did it.

One of the first things the new government did was to increase the duty on New Zealand butter to eight cents a pound—to all intents and purposes an effective embargo, and since proved to be the New Zealand's reply was an increase in the Canadian automobiles. The result was a serious blow to this country's trade with that Dominion in motor vehicles and accessories. Our exports dropped to an alarming extent and the effect, of course, is still being felt. The government also reached an arrangement with Australia that no butter from that Dominion should enter Canada at a lower price than thirty-two cents a pound. So much for the interference in the business of production of butter. Early last year, it will be remembered, butter production in Canada began to increase as the result of poor crops in 1929—history repeating itself—and the new government must have known of this, known also that it presaged Canada's gradual return to the export business, to the position she occupied in 1925, but vacated as good crop years intervened. Then followed the boost in the tariff to eight cents a pound, and butter production increased by leaps and bounds because those engaged in the business thought they would get all, and more, of the bigger profits promised them by Conservative speakers before the election.

What happened? For the first time in a couple of years Canada suddenly woke up to the realization that she had more butter on her hands than she required, that she had a substantial quantity for export. Down went the price, as it was bound to do. And the price of butter in Quebec to-day is lower than the depressed price caused by the dumping of election butter into that province last summer. The price of butter all across Canada is lower than it has been for a very long time. It also is interesting to note that during the debate on this question in the House of Commons last Tuesday night, Hon. Mr. Weir, Minister of Agriculture, had to confess that butter prices had dropped to such an extent that he had had to release Australia from her agreement in regard to the thirty-two cent figure.

This drop in the price of butter, of course, was inevitable as soon as a surplus was available for export. It could not be otherwise because unless there was a profitable market abroad for that surplus it glutted the home market, and had to be sold cheaply or destroyed. Mr. F. E. Robinson, president of the Dairy Council of Canada, said a few weeks ago, in discussing the dairymen's dilemma, that "in all our arguments during the past few years we have stated plainly that the effect of the tariff would be lost when export began," and "that is, in fact, the chief reason why we believed a four-cent tariff to be of more lasting benefit than an eight-cent one." Mr. Bennett thought he knew better. If a Liberal government found it wise to increase the duty from one cent to four cents, it must be right for a Conservative government to double it.

A country like Canada which produces, as it must produce if it is to progress at all, so many more times the volume of food it requires for its own consumption, must either export it and compete with similar products from other countries in the markets of the world, or produce just sufficient to meet its own requirements. It would be just as sensible to put a tariff on wheat as it was to raise the tariff to a prohibitive extent on butter. The result is altogether different with other Canadian products insufficient to supply the domestic demand. As soon as the tariff is increased on factory commodities, for example, the price to the consumer goes up. The fact that the consumer has benefited from the collapse of butter prices can not give any satisfaction to the government at Ottawa, which, if it gave any thought to consumers at all, expected that they would have to pay much more for their butter under a duty of eight per cent than they paid under a duty of four per cent.

If the government had continued the duty where the King administration, out of its experience of nine years, had left it, the butter industry—and the egg industry, too—would have been in a much more favorable position to-day, although the government would have had to swallow its pre-election platform to do so. Ultimately it will have to swallow that tough morsel in any case, to restore the industry whose disabilities it grossly exaggerated last year and which now, under its ministrations, is being destroyed at home as systematically as our markets are being destroyed abroad by retaliatory tariffs.

A WISE DECISION

THERE WAS A DISPATCH FROM PARIS yesterday which announced that M. Briand had definitely decided to remain at his post, that a quiet, thoughtful week-end spent at his farm near Paris has practically convinced the veteran Foreign Minister that the best interest of France and European peace could be served by his remaining at the Quai d'Orsay. M. Briand's decision will be welcomed in many of the European capitals. His services in the cause of peace are altogether too valuable to be lost.

Just as political France is so accustomed to its frequent political crises, and recovers from them as suddenly as they appear, so has M. Briand quickly recovered from what he seemed to feel was the bitter blow of his career. There must be a good deal of resiliency in his make-up, for this is how one correspondent described his appearance after he realized that what appeared to be within his easy grasp—the presidency of the French republic—had slipped from him:

When the man of Locarno mounted the steps to cast his vote on the second ballot, he presented a pitiful spectacle. His shoulders were more bowed than ever, his face was pale, and he did not look up. For him it was the hardest blow he had received in his forty years of public life, and he realized that his days as Minister of Foreign Affairs were numbered.

What is obvious to the rest of the world, of course, is that M. Briand's defeat was by no means a repudiation of his work in behalf of European peace. For if there had been any real desire to deny him further participation in the deliberations at Geneva, the Senate and Chamber of Deputies had a unique opportunity to do it politely. By insuring his election to the presidency they would have crowned a brilliant career with the gift of the highest office in the land and, at the same time, would have cleared the way for a new Foreign Minister. Unquestionably, however, he was considered too valuable a public servant to be taken out of a sphere in which his ability and initiative would have full rein and translated to an office where he would have been little more than a figure-head. M. Briand apparently recognizes this now.

STRANGE CASE OF MRS. LYONS

ACTION TAKEN RECENTLY BY THE Canadian immigration authorities at Sault Ste. Marie once again appears to emphasize the need for some change in the regulations governing the readmission to this country of Canadians long resident here after spending some time in another country on a visit. This case concerns a Mrs. J. Lyons, of Winnipeg, a war widow, sixty-one years of age, and drawing a pension of sixty dollars a month from the Dominion government. She was returning to this country after spending nine months with her son down in California, and, her son accompanying her, her destination was North Bay, where she intended to live with a married daughter.

This woman came to Canada twenty years ago and made her home in Winnipeg, from which city her husband had enlisted on the outbreak of war and had gone over to France with the 27th Battalion. He was buried alive near Vimy Ridge, dug out by his comrades, but the experience through which he went was responsible eventually for the malady that caused his death. Her pension of sixty dollars a month should be sufficient guarantee that there is little likelihood of her becoming a public charge, especially in view of the fact that she has a home waiting for her with a married daughter at North Bay, while her residence qualifications, to say nothing of her husband's war service, ought to have insured her admission at once. But she had taken out a passport of a kind enabling her to remain longer than the tourist period in the United States. If this was the technicality on which she was barred, surely there are sufficient extenuating circumstances to warrant its brushing aside by the immigration authorities. There ought to be room for common sense in the regulations.

CANADIAN NATIONALS' FRIENDS

The Ottawa Evening Journal

If there be members of Parliament who think it good politics to snipe at the Canadian National Railways, they had better make a study of the press of the entire country. For perusal of the editorial pages of Canadian newspapers, irrespective of their politics, reveals an extraordinary unanimity of feeling that the Canadian National must not be tampered with, either for political reasons or for any other reason. There are people in Canada—some of them in Parliament—who do not appear to realize the strength and the strength of public opinion, or to understand what a storm of public indignation would be aroused were the slightest attempt made to restrict Sir Henry Thornton in his freedom of management and direction. It is a sentiment, in fact, which no political party could safely defy, and which, once ignored or flouted, would bring down the strongest ministry.

A NEW STATISTICAL SERVICE

The Ottawa Journal

Comparatively few people among the general public are aware of the comprehensive character of the work done by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa. Yet the statistical details supplied by that bureau often form the basis of highly important decisions in the trade and commerce of the country. In response to widespread demand, the Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has just announced that the bureau will undertake a census of merchandising and service establishments, with the object of presenting a comprehensive picture of commodity distribution throughout the land. It is proposed that such a census shall embrace employees, wages, sales and expenses, among other items and details, and that the tabulation shall be made by kinds of business and by types of organizations.

Distribution statistics of this kind are both rare and expensive to obtain. Yet their value must be patent to any business man who will give the matter a little thought. The Dominion Statistician, Mr. Costa, requires a small extra appropriation to provide for the new service, and there should be no hesitation whatsoever in providing it, for the results will apply justly in a score of different directions. Once he is enabled to lay the foundation, the service will be largely maintained by information supplied annually by businesses and organizations, and the statistics that will thus be made available will be of real practical value to everybody concerned—to national advertisers and to distributors in particular. It is a sound, businesslike move.

Loose Ends

An absent-minded professor overlooks something—Dr. Tolmie raises a delicate problem—For his Ottawa friends—And science has another bright idea.

By H. B. W.

A BRITISH COLUMBIA ethnologist, Professor Hill-Tout, has been telling the people of eastern Canada how we can solve the Oriental problem on this Coast. His solution is so absurdly simple that I cannot help wondering how we have overlooked it so long. He proposes that we absorb the Orientals by marrying them. In a few generations, says the professor, the Oriental population will have been entirely absorbed and we shall have bred a new strain of Anglo-Saxon stock, with a strong dash of Asiatic. Only one thing stands in the way of this obvious reform, says the professor, and it is ridiculous. It is the Oriental sense of race prejudice, our objection to having our sons and daughters married to Orientals as individuals, however we may respect them as a people. The professor's argument is similar to many advanced by learned people in discussing the affairs of unlearned people. To say that we could solve the Oriental problem by marrying Orientals, if it weren't for our race prejudice, is precisely like saying that we could jump over the moon but for the law of gravity. And I imagine that our race prejudice will disappear about the same day as the law of gravity collapses. These absent-minded professors are good fellows, but they are inclined to overlook such details.

ONE OF THE ripe fruits of Premier Tolmie's recent visit to Ottawa, we are told, is to be a new and drastic federal law against nudity. This, of course, is designed to deal with Doukhobors of British Columbia, but its implications, moral and intellectual, go much further than that. They are not worth considering, though they are not likely to be. In the first place, the federal government must define nudity for the purpose of its law, and here it will find itself faced with an extremely delicate problem. If it defines nudity as being in the nude, then its law will cover not only the Doukhobors but a large part of the female population of Canada in the approaching season of bathing suits. On the other hand, if it defines nudity as being without any clothes, and thus approves the modern bathing suit, it will run into a worse difficulty. Since complete nudity is recognized by every psychologist as much more decent, much more moral and altogether less dangerous than a few clothes, skillfully arranged, the federal government may find itself punishing nudity in order to protect indecency.

WHILE THE cult of nudity in Europe is of increasing frequency, because of its immorality or indecency, because its followers are perfectly respectable people, yet many ladies, famous in history, were dangerous in hooded skirts and poke bonnets. To other words, when you refine this matter, you find that it is all dependent on who is inside the bathing suit or the skin, as the case may be. This point the federal government will find extremely difficult to decide. For my part I am prepared to believe that the nude Doukhobors of British Columbia who are to be punished, are far less harmful to public morals than half the movies that come out of Hollywood and that are constantly shown to the young.

A MISGUIDED SCIENTIST named Dr. Arthur Compton announces that he will conduct extensive research immediately to unlock the power of the atom. With this little job complete, about half a teaspoonful of water will generate sufficient power to keep the machinery of a Ford motor going for a day. A bucket or two will be all that the entire world can use. Well, somebody ought to lock Dr. Compton up, not because he is mad and unlikely to succeed in unlocking the atom; but because he is sane and very likely will succeed. It would be a good idea to lock him up and let everybody else who wants to release any more mechanical power into the world, until such time as we learn to use what we have. Then they could be allowed out, but they would probably be too old then to release anything. With the mechanical power we have already we have put a large number of people out of work. With the atom unlocked, one or two men could operate everything and the rest of us would be unemployed. If we had any sense, of course, there would be no poverty with our present means of production, and with the energy of the atom under our control we could all be rich beyond the dreams of avarice. But so far the golden age hasn't worked out like that. The more we have produced the poorer we have become until, in a world filled with people in want, we are proposing now to limit production so that they may have more.

TO A SIMPLE mind it seems as if there were something wrong that we had better solve the problems of our present machines before we build more. This idea is even shared by no less an authority than L. P. Jacks, professor of sociology in Manchester College, who has said recently: "I think the mechanical age has reached a critical turning-point in its history. Sooner or later a point will be reached when the displacement of labor will get ahead of the absorption of labor, assuming that the population remains stationary. There can be no doubt that we are now threatened by a surplus of leisure time, such as society has never had before, and of which the present unemployment is a forerunner. For this we are not prepared either biologically or by education. Man was meant for a life of active life; for a life of leisure man, both rich and poor, is biologically unfit and he begins to degenerate biologically. The evils of enforced leisure are almost as bad as the evils of enforced labor, and it is really a new form of slavery."

THUS, GIVEN the freedom of the atom, we are all likely to be slaves. That is, unless some professor wiser than those now working on the atom, evolves some plan for a better distribution of leisure time.

tion of machinery's products. In that case we should all sit without working and, according to Professor Jacks, would degenerate biologically. Either way you look at it, the outlook is terrible. Maybe, after all, we had better remain the way we are.

Twenty-five Years Ago To-day

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES,
MAY 25, 1906
(From The Times Files)

While the Victoria Day celebrations were a pronounced success, especially when the threatening aspects of the weather on May 24, and its uncertainty on the following day, necessitating the postponement of a number of the events, are taken into consideration, the general statement is that the celebration was most successful.

Lovers of cricket were present in full force on Saturday to witness the match at the Jubilee Hospital grounds between the Victoria and Tacoma teams. The game was rather too one-sided to be of absorbing interest. Tacoma being unused this year to the grass pitch that makes the local grounds the envy of visitors.

The work on the fish traps at Clover Point is progressing favorably at the present time, and the piles will soon be in place. The spiller is completed and the line of piles to the shore is now being driven.

Weather Forecast: Victoria and vicinity: Moderate or fresh, southerly winds, generally fair and moderately warm.

MRS. HUTCHINGS WINS AT COMOX

Special to The Times
Comox, May 26.—Mrs. Vera Hutchings easily won the ladies' golf tournament which was held here on Monday. Mrs. Charles Wilson won the second prize.

At the close of a big day's play the following were the winners:
Ladies' low net, won by Mrs. Angus McAllister, Shaughnessy Golf Club, Vancouver; men's low net, won by R. Filberg, Comox Golf Club; ladies' net, won by Mrs. V. Hutchings, Jericho Golf Club, Vancouver; men's net, won by B. Schwengers, Royal Colwood Golf, Victoria.

On Monday a big crowd had the pleasure of witnessing an exhibition match played between Mrs. V. Hutchings, partnered by K. S. Oiler, against Mrs. J. McAllister, partnered by E. W. Denny.

The chief feature of the game was the deadly accuracy of Mrs. McAllister's short game and the brilliant driving of Mrs. Hutchings, which resulted in their winning the match, 4 and 3.

In the afternoon a tomstone competition was arranged, the ladies' first prize being won by Mrs. Fairbairn, and the first men's going to Mr. Gage, both of the Comox Golf Club.

WHARF STREET

To the Editor:—I fully agree with "Citizen" regarding the road surfacing of Wharf Street. Not only do the Canadian National steamers and the Victoria-Port Angeles-Bellingham ferry use Wharf Street, but the E. and N. Railway have now opened up their passenger and express platform at the north end of Wharf Street, also the Imperial Oil Company will open in a few days their largest and most magnificent oiling station, which is to supply automobiles and water craft, and which is situated at Government and Wharf Streets. Then, again, the Vancouver Barge Transportation Company has their wharf at the foot of Yates Street, and the heavy freight which is handled by barge has to use Wharf Street.

Practically all freight hauled from and to the C.P.R. and C.N.R. would take Wharf Street, if it was properly paved, thus relieving Government Street.

The city fathers should make it a point to examine into this.

ANOTHER CITIZEN.

PROFESSORS AND VESTED INTERESTS

To the Editor:—When times are hard our unemployed turn to "professors" for consolation and seem to believe that these professors are unimpeachable. In Tuesday's Times A. H. would have us believe that only seventeen per cent. of production goes to the worker and eighty-three per cent. goes to the "owners of the means of life." He can easily test the absurdity of this statement. He may take a saw and axe and cut down a tree with a thousand feet of lumber confined within its bark. If he has not a saw and axe I will give him one, although he must have squandered the price of a saw and axe many times over during the last twelve years at high wages. If he doesn't know where to cut a tree, I will tell him that also, for I have had many offers during the last twelve years of 20-50 partnership as regards lumbering. He, by the way, could have had the same offers, but has been too busy having a good time. However, having cut his tree down he may roll it into the water and tow it to any lumber mill in the city. How? That's his business. That's work, and he, presumably, wants work; or perhaps he is a "situation" he wants. The mills will give him $10 for that log comprising 1,000 feet of lumber. He may then order 1,000 feet of dressed, dimensioned lumber, and can take it away by paying back that same $10 bill. Where does he get that idea about eighty-three per cent. going to the workers and only seventeen per cent. to the workers? He says Prof. T. Veblen told him all about it in a book called "Vested Interests." If he would read a few books on lumbering or economics, and get a few miles further away from 808 Blanshard Street, it might be a good thing for both his health and his pocket.

Colette, the Frenchwoman and Zane Grey

Books to suit all tastes again feature the new list just announced by the Victoria Public Library. Biography, aviation, bridge, radio are some of the subjects dealt with. In addition, there are many fiction books.

Authors represented include Mary Roberts Rinehart, G. Lowes Dickinson, an authority on the ancient Greek life; T. M. Tomlinson, Cosmo Hamilton, Gilbert Frankau, Rupert Hughes, Colette, the French woman writer, and Zane Grey. The full list follows:

NON-FICTION

"Your Dog," by Nafale Willetts Lewis, has been written as an aid to those new to the problem of buying and caring for dogs. It is hoped that it may save dog owners not only from expensive mistakes, but from a loss of valuable time.

"Jump," by Don Glassman, is a history of the parachute in aviation with an account of the thrilling feats of the Caterpillar Club members, who have saved their lives by forced jumps from crippled airplanes, floating down to earth on a silken cord, like the caterpillar itself.

"London and Its Government," by Percy A. Harris, explains the old institutions, such as the City Corporation and the Guilds, and describes fully and graphically London government as it is to-day.

"Elizabeth, the Queen," by Maxwell Anderson, the author of "What Price Glory?" shows us Elizabeth, Queen of England, and Essex, royal favorite and courtier, in the throes of their affair. "My Story," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, tells the story of her life, which has been packed with events and people. She has been a trained nurse, a mother, a traveler in distant lands, an explorer, a playwright, a novelist and a war correspondent.

"After Two Thousand Years," by G. Lowes Dickinson, is a brilliant discussion of contemporary issues, political, aesthetic and religious, in the form of a dialogue between a young man of the present day and the philosopher Plato.

"The Literature of Japan," by J. Ingram Bryan, is a discussion of the literature of Japan from its earliest beginnings in 400 A.D. to her modern authors and works of genius.

"A Book of Soundings," by T. M. Tomlinson, is a group of sketches and stories of Devon, the Alps and the Spice Islands. The reader travels with kindred spirit to places near and far, strange and commonplace, in a restless search for excitement of the mind.

"The Incredible Yacquel," by Hermann Deutsch, was written after years of careful research, and in it will be found the salt of battle, the spice of high comedy and an understanding of the complex political history of Central America.

OTHER BOOKS
Other books received during the past week are: "Common Sense Contract Bridge," by Work and Wyman; "Contract Bridge Guide," by Barclay; "Canadian Writers' Market Survey," by the Writers' Club of Toronto; "American Elements," by L. H. Morrison; "Elements of Chemistry," by Badger and McCabe; "Practical Bricklaying," by Briggs and Carver; "Backgammon of To-day," by John Longacre; "Norway Yearbook 1931," "Hortus's Concise Dictionary of Gardening," by L. H. Bailey and E. Z. Bailey; "Radio Operating Questions and Answers," by Arthur N. Nilson and J. L. Hornung.

FICTION
"Wooden Woman," by Alexander Townsend, is a strange sea tale of the woman who posed for the wooden woman below Capt. Targe's vessel's bowsprit.

"Damned Little Fool," by Cosmo Hamilton, is the human story of Rosita Moreland, the damned little fool who never grew up and who wanted just one thing from life, and that was happiness.

"Martin Make-believe," by Gilbert Frankau, is a stirring novel of love and courage; it is rich in emotion and incident and varied in scene. Those who liked "Gerald Cranston's Lady," will be sure to like it.

"No One Man," by Rupert Hughes, is an interesting story of a girl who is desperately hunting an answer to the problems that are driving more and more women to the divorce courts every year.

"Dashed Banners," by Ethel Mannin, is essentially a novel of ideas, a strange story in which satire and poetry, mockery and tears are curiously mingled. "Roads of Peace," by Ganpat, is a novel of India as a soldier sees it; he shows us the India that is tortured with her struggles and her feuds and shows us what he considers the way out.

"My Own Far Towers," by Mathilde Baker, is the story of a girl thwarted by circumstances from becoming an artist, the author shows deep insight into the tragedy of such a life.

"Other Man's Saucer," by J. Keith Winter, is a novel which has attracted a chorus of praise from such writers as Hugh Walpole, J. B. Priestley, Sheila Kaye-Smith, etc.

"Into the Land of Nod," by H. A. Vachell, is a novel which has its theme hereditarily. Around this theme Mr. Vachell has woven a singularly interesting novel.

"The Gentle Libertine," by Colette, is the story of the love and passion of a precocious child, Minnie. It is a shrewd study of adolescent and mature love.

"Ambrose Holt and Family," by Susan Glassell, is the story of many loves and one great love. It is the story of Brook Evans, and yet before that that of Brook Evans's mother.

"Two Decenters," by Duncan Clark, is an engrossing mystery tale, set in a small town of the Ottawa Valley of thirty years ago.

"Private Timothy Fergus Clancy," by William B. Bird, is a comedy with the war as a background—something new in the way of war books.

"Man Child," by Grace Blackburn, tells of a mother's love for her only son.

MAY WEDDING AT FIRST CHURCH PRETTY AFFAIR

Miss Margaret B. Wilson Married Yesterday Evening to Stanley V. Wright

The First United Church was beautifully decorated with flowers, pink predominating, for the ceremony at 8 o'clock yesterday evening, which united in marriage Margaret Bennett, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wilson, 1415 Harrison Street, to Mr. Stanley Victor Wright, son of Capt. and Mrs. F. B. Wright, Gladstone Avenue. Rev. W. G. Wilson, D.D., officiated in the presence of a large congregation. Pink carnations and evergreens composed the arch and wedding bell, beneath which the young couple stood during the ceremony, and similar arches spanned the aisles to mark the guest pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride made a winsome picture in her wedding gown of ivory lace, made on princess lines, the full skirt being slightly longer at the back. The gown was finished with a capelet made with long light-fitting sleeves and worn with a bow of ivory satin ribbon on the shoulder. Her veil of embroidered net, which had been worn by her mother, was arranged in cap effect, with a spray of orange blossoms confining it to the hair at the back. She carried a beautiful sheaf of Calla lilies.

Miss Evelyn Wilson, the maid of honor, wore a charming ensemble of sunshine yellow crepe, made on princess lines, the jacket being trimmed with lace, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of coral gladioli and snapdragons. Miss Elsie Weeks and Miss Ruby Bethell, the bridesmaids, were gowned alike in very pretty frocks of hair braid in harmonizing colors, with the fashionable halo-brims. They carried sheafs of pink carnations and coral snapdragons.

Mr. Ralph Butler supported the bridegroom, and the ushers were Messrs. George Davies and Frank Irvington. During the signing of the register, Mr. Frank Tupman sang "Nirvana," accompanied by the organist, Mr. W. A. Gurney.

RECEPTION HELD

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Jessie Wilson, Port Street, the young couple receiving the felicitations of their many friends beneath a horseshoe of pink carnations and greenery. They were assisted in receiving their many guests by Mrs. Wilson, mother of the bride, wearing an ensemble of Monet blue Canton crepe and hat to match, and the ushers were Messrs. George Davies and Frank Irvington. During the signing of the register, Mr. Frank Tupman sang "Nirvana," accompanied by the organist, Mr. W. A. Gurney.

Heritage and Miss Marjorie Watson presided at the supper table, which was prettily decorated with vases of sweet peas and tall pink tapers. The three wedding cakes, surmounted with a silver vase of Ophelia roses formed the centre piece. Mrs. G. Davies, Mrs. C. Robertson and the Misses Nancy Stark, Nellie Aymes, Marion Heritage and Jean Wilson assisted in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Wright left on the midnight boat for Vancouver, whence they will proceed by motor on a honeymoon tour over the Georgian circuit, the bride traveling in a becoming green sports suit and hat to match.

First Church Guild — A well-attended meeting of the Women's Guild of the First United Church was held on Tuesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. A. S. Christie, in the chair, she leading the opening devotional period. On account of the illness of the secretary, Mrs. J. S. Connibear, Mrs. George Clark filled that office at the meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. G. D. Clifford, submitted a very satisfactory financial statement, when a cash donation was voted towards the building fund of the Children's Aid Society. Reports from Mrs. J. T. McDonald and Miss McQuarrie, hospital-visitors, were given, also reports by Mrs. Clark and others, on the two suppers served to the lay delegates and clergy attending the recent conference.

A PRETTY MAY BRIDE

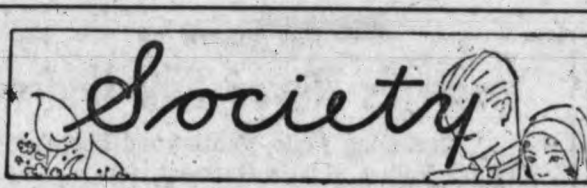

MRS. FRANK WILLIAM TYRELL

The marriage of Ada Dorothy, youngest daughter of the late Mr. A. H. Ladell and Mrs. Ladell, of Linden Avenue, and Frank William, second son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tyrell, Beach Drive, took place at Christ Church Cathedral, Saturday evening, the Dean of Columbia officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. B. T. Ladell, of Bellingham, and looked lovely in her wedding gown of white satin and lace and her veil arranged in cap effect with strands of orange blossom. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia and sweetheart roses, bouvardia and anemones. Mrs. A. H. Tyrell, sister-in-law of the bride, acted as matron of honor, and Miss Marion Tyrell, as bridesmaid, wore charming frocks of lace in peach and green, respectively, with picture hats in egg-shell mohair. Their bouquets were of baby pink gladioli and mauve sweet peas.

Mr. Norman Tyrell supported the bridegroom, and the ushers were Mr. Hubert Hanson and Mr. Colin Tyrell. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where the bride and bridegroom, standing under an arch of roses, received the felicitations of their friends. A buffet supper was served from a table decorated in peach and green, and centred by a three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Ladell received the guests handsomely gowned in black Canton crepe trimmed with cerise lace with hat to match, assisted by Mrs. A. Tyrell, in a smart gown of black and white, with becoming picture hat. Both wore corsage bouquets of pink roses. Assisting in serving supper were Mrs. O. Corbett, Mrs. F. Forrester, Miss Ivy Hill, Miss C. Langford, Miss C. Carrell and Miss A. White. During the evening Mr. E. A. Williams sang "O Promise Me."

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Tremblin, Miss C. Langford, Miss J. White and Mr. B. T. Ladell, all of Bellingham, and Mr. William Smith of London, England. TRAGIC QUEEN OF ROUMANIA FACES EXILE

Accepts as Certain Decree to Leave Country and Parting From Little Son

London, May 28.—The tragic Queen of Roumania, Helen, divorced wife of King Carol, has accepted as certain that she must soon leave Roumania and become separated from her beloved little son, nine-year-old Crown Prince Michael.

An English woman friend who has just arrived in London from Bucharest told the Associated Press of the pathetic conversation she had in Bucharest a few days ago with Queen Helen. Strong indications have come from sources close to the Roumanian Government that Helen is to be removed from the list of the royal family and exiled from Roumania.

"No choice is left me," the queen told her English friend. "As between humiliation and departure I have chosen the latter—that is to say, I have resigned myself to what had to come sooner or later. No promises have been made to me. Only the statement that I could go away was reiterated. I could do nothing."

"I have been kept at arm's length for the past year. The date of my departure has not been fixed, but it probably will be when the official formalities in connection with the assembly of the new parliament are ended."

A SAD LIFE
"My life has been a sad one for years and now I am going out into the dark. My inquiries abroad have not yet enabled me to decide where I shall take up permanent residence after leaving Roumania. It is probably will be either Italy or France."

"There is no key to my future. I have lived in enforced retirement for a full year now and I shall live the life of a recluse henceforward."

"My dear boy, Michael, was inconceivable when I told him what my life is to be henceforward. I never saw despair written more deeply on the face of a child before. I don't know where or how I shall be seeing him. That is my most profound sorrow."

ORPHANAGE TO HOLD TAG DAY

Annual Appeal For Hillside Institution on Saturday; Funds Needed

On Saturday the public will be asked to contribute through the medium of a tag day to the funds of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage, when the ladies' committee, which has charge of the appeal, hopes that it will respond with its customary generosity. The work of the Orphanage is so well known as to need little further commendation.

The president of the ladies' committee, Mrs. C. H. Walker, will act as general convenor. Boxes and tags can be procured at the office of the B.C. Land and Investment Company, on Friday at 4 o'clock.

The following are the conveners and their corners: Mrs. Simpson, Douglas and View Streets; Mrs. Fraser, Douglas and Port; Mrs. Spencer, market; Mrs. Cox, library; Mrs. C. H. Walker, Broad and Yates; Mrs. Shepherd, Broad and View; Mrs. Elliott, Broad and Port; Mrs. O. M. Brown, Parliament Buildings; Mrs. Murray, Post Office; Mrs. Hughes, Government and View; Mrs. F. C. Plaskett and Mrs. Quilter. Mrs. Herbert Anson presided at the daintily-decorated tea table.

A pretty wedding of much interest to local friends of the young couple took place at the home of the bride's mother in Vancouver on Monday evening when Miss Elizabeth Jane Garvey, second daughter of Mr. W. Bell, was united in marriage to Sidney Hubert, second son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Raven of Victoria. After a honeymoon in Victoria, Mr. and Mrs. Raven will make their home in Vancouver.

A very enjoyable surprise party was given by Mrs. Milady on Friday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. Miller of 3242 Oak Street, the occasion being their thirteenth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Miller received many lovely gifts five hundred, for which Mrs. Milady presented "Belle's" first prize and Mr. Fraser, gentleman's first prize. The consolation prizes went to Mr. Markland and Mrs. Milady. Refreshments were served following the card game and the rest of the evening was spent in dancing. O'Malley, Mrs. Dooly, Mr. and Mrs. Bavan, Mr. and Mrs. Weatherall, Mr. and Mrs. Milady, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Miss Hill, Miss Betty, Miss Joy, Miss Milady and Miss Grace Miller and Master David Miller.

ROTARY DANCE AT WILLOWS

June 3 Affair to Mark Opening of New Manufacturers' Building

J. P. Watson, president-elect of the Rotary Club of Victoria, announces completion of plans for the monster community dance which will be held on June 3, the King's birthday, to mark the opening of the new Manufacturers' Building at the Willows. Funds are in aid of Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals and Rotary Club charities.

The event is one of unusual interest, as it is the only time that the immense floor in the new building will be available for dancing. Plans call for the immediate erection of display booths in conformity with plans for the completion of the building, but meanwhile it will be used for this special dance. Rotarians will decorate the building for the occasion and a ten-piece orchestra will provide the best of music. A buffet supper will be served under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the two local hospitals. Tickets are now on sale at Fletcher Bros. and Toggery Shop.

Memory of General Wolf Is Honored In Great Britain

Bath, Eng., May 28.—Memory of General Wolf was honored here yesterday when F. P. Burden, Agent-General for British Columbia in Great Britain, placed a laurel wreath on the mural tablet of the beautiful old Georgian house where Wolfe was living when he received his commission to go to Quebec.

The ceremony was followed by a Royal Empire Society (B.C. Branch) luncheon at which Mr. Burden was chief speaker in place of Hon. G. Howard-Ferguson, Canadian High Commissioner to Great Britain, who had been called to Geneva. The gathering included many who had served the Empire in administrative, legal and military capacities.

SAVED IMPORTED DRESS

"After a little wearing, a lovely green voile—an imported dress—lost completely that it was not wearable. A friend who had admired it asked why I wasn't wearing it any more. On hearing the reason, she advised dyeing it and recommended Diamond Dye. To make a long story short, it turned out beautifully. I have a lovely new dress that really cost just 15 cents—the price of one package of Diamond Dye."

"I have since used Diamond Dye for both tinting and dyeing. They do either equally well. I am not an expert dyer, but I never have a failure with Diamond Dye. They seem to be made so they always go on smooth and evenly. They never spot, streak or run; and friends never know things I dye with Diamond Dye are dyed at all!"

BRITISH EMPIRE IS BIG JOB

Says Professor Before National I.O.D.E.; Condemns Those Who Decry It

Canadian Press
Halifax, N.S., May 22.—"Under the Providence of God we have been called upon to fill the biggest job ever done and we have done it fairly well." This was the conception of the British Commonwealth held up yesterday evening before the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, by Dr. Stanley Walker, professor of history at King's University. He uttered an exhortation to look confidently to the future, to think co-operatively, and to hold fast to the tradition of equality on which British citizenship was based.

"There is something in the empire that has the power to thrill us," said Professor Walker, speaking to the delegates at a dinner given by the Municipal Chapter. "We must have been thrilled to build it, we must thrill to pull through with it."

Remarking that "we are the only empire that is left—we are perpetuating an idea that has filled the mind of man since the beginning of the peoples, and fulfilling it better than did any other," the speaker said it had become almost fashionable to mention the empire only with a "hang-dog" air.

"I have written," he continued, "to hear men of other countries talk about us. I listened to a professor who had spent two weeks in Britain come back and tell 1,000 students that the mother country was committing suicide in an orgy of gin and iniquity. I heard a returned missionary tell a similar audience that the empire was rapidly collapsing, and that on their shoulders rested the responsibility of taking up the white man's burden. I want to say that if any other nation has to take up that burden, pity help the world."

MISS TERRY'S GREETINGS
Interprovincial greetings between the delegates were voiced at the dinner by Mrs. S. T. Cret of Hamilton, Ont. Mrs. J. H. Hughes of Winnipeg, Man. Miss Ilace Terry, Victoria, B.C. Mrs. George Black, Yukon. Mrs. R. C. Marshall, Alberta. Miss Georgina Paulkner, Halifax, N.S.

MATERNAL DEATH RATE TOO HIGH I.O.D.E. IS TOLD

Child Welfare Report Before National Chapter Urges Pre-natal Education

Canadian Press
Halifax, N.S., May 22.—One of the greatest needs in Canada to-day is pre-natal and maternal education, said the report on child welfare presented to the National Chapter, Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, by Mrs. A. U. de Fencier, national convener of the committee yesterday.

Emphasizing the appalling maternal mortality rate, the report said maternal death rates for the year disclosed that while Holland lost at the rate of 2.5 per thousand, France 2.6, Denmark, Norway and Sweden 2.8, and England 4.3, Canada showed a very high rate of 5.8. The high rate was stressed by the provincial convener of Ontario and Quebec.

Co-operation with the Canadian Council on Child Welfare was urged in the report, chapters being requested to secure and distribute the council's pamphlets, and publications bearing on this subject.

HOME GUIDANCE
Fear of the effect of communistic teaching and propaganda was expressed in the report, which urged concentration on home guidance. "As mothers and true daughters of a great empire, we should do all we can to foster a love of God and home, among parents and children, when we hear on all sides of communistic teaching and propaganda being broadcast, especially among the young people," said the report. "It is well for us all to remember that the children of to-day are the future mothers and fathers of our nation, and if we neglect home guidance, how can we look for a sane God-fearing nation?"

Chapters have done "marvelous work" during the past year, the report said, work for orphanages, detention homes, etc., being splendid. "But what can we show of work to strengthen the ties of home and love of God, home, mother and country?" the report asked. "May all those who have been working for hospitals, clinics, prevention of tuberculosis, summer camps and the hundred and one relief works for the good of all, continue and enlarge their work. Then half the story of good work is not told, but even the cup of cold water given to a little one in God's name will receive its reward. Let us this coming year aim at having every chapter appoint a convener, or at least every chapter report their good work. If for no other reason than to help other chapters by giving them ideas how they, too, may help."

SCHOLARSHIPS JUSTIFIED
University students who benefited by I.O.D.E. scholarships have found positions on half the university held in Canada, Miss W. Gordon, of Kingston, Ont., reported.

Two Edmonton women yesterday were ratified as life members in the order. They were Mrs. E. Bryce Saunders and Mrs. Duncan Smith.

China Classes Hold Exhibition Of Work at Y.W.C.A.

An exhibition of hand-painted china was held Tuesday afternoon and evening in the reception room of the Y.W.C.A. when the night classes of Mrs. W. A. Willis, which were attended by twenty-three students during the winter months, displayed their charming work. Three large tables held the artistic output, which included cups and saucers, plates in a variety of shapes and sizes, bowls, vases, jugs, candlesticks, salts and peppers, tea sets and trays. The display, though smaller than last year, is of a very high standard, and purely conventional in nearly all the designs; the exceptions to these being original presentations of butterflies, ships, and some charming adaptations of birds in brilliant colorings. A three-piece tea set in yellow with black hand-drawn, designed by Mrs. Willis, was very striking.

The tables were decorated with phlox, fuchsias and flags in tall, plain vases, arranged by Rosalind Willis, and a number of water color sketches by her mother, about the rooms lent an artistic background. The exhibition was well attended both in the afternoon and evening, and the Y.W.C.A. served tea. Mrs. Willis was assisted in receiving the visitors by Miss Oates, who also helped in explaining the work of the night classes, which are held each autumn and winter season at the Y.W.C.A., and in which girls who are engaged during the day in their own studies find a delightful outlet for their artistic ambitions in the evenings.

Rector Offers To Give Advice On Birth Control

Toronto, May 22.—The Toronto Mail and Empire this morning published the following:

"As a practical step in the education campaign which he advocates, Rev. Canon Lawrence Skye, rector of St. Anne's Anglican Church here, has offered to give information on birth control to any young woman of his parish who is about to be married. In each case, it is learned, the girl must have the consent of her parents, and the mother must accompany her to the interview with the rector."

Fellowship Club.—The Fellowship Club entertained the inmates of the two wards for aged and infirm patients on Tuesday afternoon at the Jubilee Hospital, providing the usual delicious tea, and entertainment for the appreciative inmates. Musical numbers were contributed by Mrs. Bosworth, Mrs. Thornbrough and Mrs. Shrimpton, and everyone joined in the community singing. Funds to provide these entertainments are provided by means of fund parties, the next of which will be held in June at a date to be announced later.

When you specify Kotex you are sure of soft sanitary protection

Because Kotex absorbs correctly, it gives comfort and a feeling of perfect safety for many hours

HOURS spent at a bridge table; other hours at the theatre; in school; at an office desk! The problem of sanitary protection becomes more and more complicated as the modern woman extends her varied interests. For she refuses to recognize physical handicaps which at one time limited her activities. Kotex has made such handicaps a thing of the past.

Later Absorption—a Kotex feature
In order that a sanitary pad shall fulfil its purpose satisfactorily, it must absorb not only in one concentrated spot, but the full length of the surface. Kotex does this... the long, delicate fibres of which it is made carry moisture swiftly away from the centre and away from the surface. This makes for perfect, lasting comfort. Kotex is soft—and it stays soft, because in addition, its gauze is specially treated for softness. Kotex does not pack into hard chafing discomfort while in use. Wear it on either side with equal protection. No precaution need be taken to wear Kotex a special way. Adjustable to your needs

As your needs change, you adjust Kotex easily because its construction is scientifically correct. And all through these filmy layers it is treated to deodorize, which keeps you feeling secure and dainty.

The softness, the security, the hygienic qualities of Kotex already are familiar to millions of women. Buy it at any drug, dry goods or department store. Kotex Company of Canada, Limited, Toronto.

YOUR BABY and MINE

by MRS. MARY ELDER

Mrs. Elder will be glad to answer any questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

OTHER PEOPLE'S CHILDREN ALWAYS "TERRIBLE"

All of us are affected by what someone else expects of us. The question of discipline may not bother the mother at all when she is alone with her children. She is busy. They are happy. She is pleasantly blind and deaf to what they are doing and the result is excellent.

But let a visitor step into the home circle. The visitor notes that the young child is running about, picking up the books, tossing the sofa pillows about, dabbling focus on his face in imitation of mother's powdering. At last her queries will not stay put.

"Do you let him handle all your things that way? Aren't you afraid he'll break something?"

Immediately the mother feels called upon to do something. Up to this moment what the child did had seemed harmless enough. Viewed through the disapproving eyes of her visitor it becomes mischief, mischief which demands punishment. So she orders the child to stop handling things. Her voice is stern. She is going to show the visitor how well she can manage her little meddler.

CAN'T SUIT FRIENDS AND RELATIVES

The stern voice frightens the child. His mother is not usually so cross. He looks at her in consternation. Then what? Nothing happens. He goes about playing as before, hopeful that all is well.

"Mercy, look at him; he's right back at it again. He doesn't pay much attention to what you say, does he?" That is a challenge. The mother tries to prove that she is boss, and so she makes a mountain out of a molehill, demanding that the child step about like an automaton, in order to prove that she can control him. If she does not, Mrs. 80-and-so will be certain to go away and tell everyone what a little nuisance Tommy Tucker is. "He pays no more attention to his mother than if she were the wind. He just runs wild."

More Missionaries Needed in East, Says W.M.S. Report

Winnipeg, May 22.—Need of more missionaries in India, Formosa, Japan and China, was expressed in reports read yesterday at the biennial convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. Secretary Mrs. A. R. McKim, of Toronto, told the gathering that more than 400 towns and villages were being covered by the society's workers in India. The work was progressing, she said, but the few missionaries badly needed assistance.

WAR VETERAN'S WIFE ADMITTED

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., May 22.—Mrs. W. J. Lyons, formerly of Winnipeg, who had been denied admission to Canada when she sought entry to visit a daughter in North Bay, was admitted here yesterday. Mrs. Lyons, who was born on the island of Jersey and came to Canada with her husband twenty years ago, had spent some months in California. She applied the decision of the immigration officials at Sault Ste. Marie, and the appeal was successful. Members of the Canadian Legion interested themselves in her case, as Mrs. Lyons's husband had served with the Canadian forces during the Great War.

THE SPORTS MIRROR

We Don't See Any Reason for Changing Date of B.C. Amateur Golf

Players Do Not Lose Time Playing During Easter Holidays

Munroe Bourne, Canadian Swimming Ace, Native Son of Victoria

Has Established Brilliant Record While Attending McGill

Mr. Lyle says that Vancouver was not represented at Victoria this year in strength. And yet when we look over the list of entries in the tournament we find the names of the following well-known players: Freddie Wood, Ken Black, Cecil Coville, Monty Hill, Harry Pryke, Jack Hargrave, Dick Moore and F. W. Chaffin. If this is not a strong mainland entry, there must be a number of star golfers in Vancouver that the writer has never heard of. Wood, Black and Coville are considered about the class of Vancouver amateurs, and we would consider their entry alone a good representation.

If Vancouver was not well represented it seems strange that two of the mainland players reached the semi-finals, Coville and Black. Of course our Vancouver friend may possibly be attempting to offer an alibi for the Vancouver golfers who found themselves put out of the running by two up and coming Victoria youngsters, Harold Brynjolfsson and Bob Morrison. Andy is always ready with an alibi for Vancouver defeats. The B.C. amateur has been held during Easter week for many years, and has always drawn a splendid entry list. Weather conditions have been ideal for some of the tournaments, but good players can take care of themselves in any weather. That's one of the hazards of golf. Why change the dates anyway? If golfers want to play in sunshine all the time let them hang up their clubs for the winter months. Think over that one, Andy.

And here is a point not to overlook. The Pacific Northwest amateur and open championships are staged in the summer, and most of the star golfers in British Columbia like to enter them. If the B.C. amateur was also booked in the summer it would be impossible for most of the amateurs to get off from work to take in both tournaments. By having the B.C. at Easter some of the golfers not only have time to enter and others only have to take off Saturday. Good Friday is a holiday and so is Easter Monday, when the finals are played.

Although many local sports fans may not be aware of the fact one of Canada's greatest swimmers is a native son of Victoria. We refer to Munroe Bourne, member of Canada's Olympic Games team at Amsterdam in 1928, and a sure choice for Los Angeles next summer.

Munroe was born in Victoria on June 28, 1910, and moved with his family to Montreal, Quebec, when he was three years old. He spent his childhood in Ireland. He took part in the Tallent games, established a new Irish record for the 100 yards backstroke, and won second to Walter Spence in the 200 yards freestyle, thus showing his class. Munroe also visited Harvard in 1930 with his Alma Mater, and reached the finals of the finals being Olympic men. He traveled to Winnipeg in 1927 to win his first Canadian championship, annexing the fifty yards and 200 yards. There is no denying Munroe's speed as a sprinter. He won fame for himself and honor for Canada at the British Empire Games at Hamilton last year, by beating the Empire's best at the century.

Munroe has lots of courage. In fact when he was twelve years of age he swam a 500-yard Canadian championship school swimming behind did not worry him; he was second anyway. School swimming always appealed to this youngster, and he won the Montreal High School championship three times. His great school spirit he took to McGill University in 1927, and he has dominated the inter-collegiate swimming meets each year. In fact, in 1928, he was three firsts, and has done it each year since. Munroe is also good on the track, and can do the half-mile with the best.

Most golf clubs furnish players with report cards on which they are asked to report on the work of the caddies. Why not, as a matter of fact, play, issue cards to caddies so that they may report on the golfers? Something along this line:

Caddie's report on golfers—Notes: Was the above caddie a good golfer? Reasonable? A good spot at all times? Was he fair, reasonable and a good sport at any time? Did he have one of those heavy cowhide bags designed to be carried by a pack mule? Was he profane, and if so, was his type of profanity stereotyped or educational? Was he one of those golfers who cry "watch it!" every time he gets a ball off the ground? Did he ask your advice on what club to use and then back "I know I should" (Concluded on Page 14)

Take Major Laurels In Big Sports Meet Run Off At Willows

Athletes From Oaklands Capture Senior and Grand Aggregate Trophies, While Sir James Douglas Land Junior Honors; Ben Vesey, Lorne McGregor and Hilda Wescott Show Form in Winning Feature 100-yard Dashes; Max Rycroft Does Well in Furlong and Bill Naysmith Runs Pretty Half-mile; Relays Draw Great Interest

Flashing down the track in splendid form, Oaklands athletes added sufficient points to those they had won previously in the field trials to win the prized Senior Challenge Trophy and Parent-Teachers Grand Aggregate Cup in the City School Sports held at the Willows yesterday. Sir James Douglas took first honors in the junior division. The meet was one of the most successful ever held by the city schools, thousands of spectators, both young and old, filling the grandstand to capacity and overflowing along the course to watch the events, many of which were decided in hairline finishes. It was a great day for the youngsters, both tiny and big, as their sturdy legs carried them over the track to the accompaniment of swelling cheers from their supporters. Overhead, Old Sol beamed in all his magnificence to make up for the postponement of the event last week.

TO ENFORCE AMATEURISM

Athletic Federation to Stamp Out All Signs of Professionalism at Olympiad

London, May 28.—The council of the International Amateur Athletic Federation yesterday decided to take measures tightening enforcement of the rules against professionalism in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles.

S. Stankovits of Hungary, a member of the council, will go to Los Angeles soon to co-operate in the Olympic arrangements and to make sure that the meet is run in accordance with the I.A.A.F. rules.

As a result of complaints about laxity in regard to the rule that no foreign athlete may compete in the track events without a permit from his own country, it was decided to strictly enforce this rule and call the attention of the various athletic associations of the world to its provisions.

It also was decided that an athlete during his stay in a foreign country shall be under the control of the athletic association of that country. The council made several decisions governing the 1932 Olympics. Among them were:

No professional starters will be permitted; the hurdles used shall meet I.A.A.F. specifications, and only three entries from each country will be permitted in the marathon and the 50,000 metre walk.

PLAY TO A DRAW

Vancouver, May 28.—Arrows and Freeman played eight innings to a 4 to 4 tie in a Vancouver City and District Amateur Baseball League game here yesterday evening. Darkness called a halt to proceedings. Arrows led for its innings, but the Freeman tied it up in the sixth. Pete Stagg, Arrow centre fielder, attempted to steal home in the eighth, but was caught at the plate.

Bob Pearce Becomes Hero Overnight With Old Salts And Boys

Famous Canadian Sculler, Training for Diamond Sculls at Putney, Is Idol of British Residents; Holder of Olympic Games Championship Confident of Victory; Regards Bradley as Greatest Rival; Sleeps Every Afternoon to Get Away From Autograph Seekers; Will Attempt to Set New Record Paddling Canoe From Henley to Putney

London, May 28.—At Putney a pair of gleaming shoulders and a pair of compelling blue eyes are holding tideway loiterers in a spell of admiration. They belong to Bob Pearce, giant Canadian sculler, who has no need to win the Diamond Sculls to become a hero. He is already the idol of towpath idlers from ancient sea salts down to tiny children.

Pearce won the singles championship at the British Empire games in Hamilton, Ont., last year. In addition, he defeated all opposition at the 1928 Olympic games and won at practically every important regatta in the last two years. Now he is making his bid for the Diamond Sculls.

Typical of Bob's personality was the joke he passed about suffering from senile decay. But in the same breath he said, smilingly, that baring accidents, "I should say it would be too bad if I didn't win the diamonds." There are far too many admirers to make Bob's too busy in the afternoon comfortable. He finds it better to sleep than to be bothered by the throngs of admirers. He will endeavor to set a new record by paddling from Henley to Putney in twelve hours, thereby leaving the famous Steve Fairbairn's figure cold. Fairbairn took twenty-four hours to do the fifty-eight miles.

Gus Sonnenberg Wins Over McCoy

Milwaukee, May 28.—Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestler, yesterday evening defeated Bob McCoy, a former world champion, in a double-header after walking away with the opener, 11 to 3. Bob Burke's relief pitching featured in the nightcap.

Giants Climb Into First Place After Strenuous Struggle

New York Club Hurdles St. Louis Cardinals for National League Leadership by 7-to-4 Victory Over Boston; Cards Suffer 4 to 0 Blanking at Hands of Pittsburgh; Hogan's Home Run Gives Giants Edge; Cubs Win and Move Up; Athletics Humble Yanks 6 to 5; Washington Wins Pair

It's been a long, hard haul for John McGraw and his New York Giants, but they finally have reached the top of the National League percentage column.

After having flirted with the leadership for a week, during which common sense at times told them they were ahead but the figures told them differently, they removed the last doubt by trimming the Boston Braves yesterday, 7 to 4, while the St. Louis Cardinals were receiving a blanketing from Pittsburgh, 4 to 0.

The Giants were out in front by a game and a half to-day, despite the fact they were several points behind the Cards before yesterday's momentous proceedings. It is the first time the Red Birds have been dislodged since the race began. The first time, in fact, since the latter stages of the 1930 season.

Frank Hogan, husky Giant catcher, and Heinie Meine, Pittsburgh right-hander, collaborated to change the complexion of the race. Hogan, better known to his public as "Shanty," wrapped one of Hooks Seibold's choicest curves into the stands with two on base to clinch a four-run Giant rally in the third inning from which the Braves never recovered. Boston threatened in the eighth, sufficiently to cause the removal of John Rizzo, but Heving went in and quieted them.

Meine set the Cardinals down with eight scattered hits, all singles. Meine is the only pitcher who has held the Indians down to a score of one run in the last three games. He blanked them with four hits on April 26. Lloyd Waner accounted for four of the Pirates' ten hits off Johnson and Lindsey.

CUBS MOVE UP

Boston's third straight loss to the Giants cost Bill McKechnie's hopefuls their hold on third place. The Chicago Cubs, by downing Cincinnati, 8 to 4, moved into second place. Their consecutive victory the Cubs pounded four Red hurlers for eleven hits, Riggs Stephenson leading the assault with two doubles, a triple and a single in as many attempts.

After having seen their lengthy winning streak clipped the previous day, the Philadelphia Athletics got right back on the trail with a 3 to 1 decision over the New York Yankees. Bing Miller doubled with the bases loaded in the eighth to score Cochrane and secured the victory. Earl Webb of the Sox hit four doubles and a triple in seven times up in two games.

TAKE DOUBLE-HEADER

The Chicago White Sox swept a double-header with Detroit by scores of 4 to 4 and 10 to 1. Pat Caraway's pitching in the second tilt featured the day. In addition to holding the Tigers to five hits to score his sixth victory of the season, he led the Sox attack with three singles and a double, and scored three runs. A four-run outburst off Earl Whitehill in the last of the ninth gave the Bushmen victory in the first game.

The Cleveland Indians produced a similar punch in the ninth round to take their third straight from St. Louis 5 to 4. Held to one run until the ninth, the Indians came back to drive Sam Gray from the hill and win on Burnett's climactic single. Wes Ferrell went the route, to win his seventh game. Brockton and Philadelphia were not scheduled in the National.

ENGLISH XI IN CRUSHING 11 TO 0 WIN

Touring Old Country Footballers Give Brilliant Exhibition at Montreal

Canadian Team Goes to Pieces; Bowden, Hine and Smith Share Goals

Montreal, May 28.—The visiting English soccer stars inflicted a stunning defeat on a Montreal eleven, winning the exhibition match here yesterday evening by the tall total of 11 to 0. No touring team has ever scored such a one-sided victory over a local aggregation—but the visitors were worth every goal.

There was only one team in the picture. Montreal got off to a bad start, faltered and collapsed before the onslaught of the visitors. They never scored and never looked like scoring. They seemed stage-struck when the Englishmen scored in the first three minutes. When the visitors had increased the total to three goals in the first twenty minutes the Montreal team and particularly the goalkeeper, Nelson, completely lost confidence.

DEADLY SHOOTING

The shooting of the English team was deadly, accurate and seldom above knee high they rifled shots at the Montreal end which had the defence and the goalkeeper completely baffled. The three inside forwards divided the eleven goals. Bowden, who took the centre position when Cookson was declared unfit, just prior to the match, secured four of the goals, and Hine four, and Smith three.

Britisher and U.S. Golfer in Tie For Lead in Tournament

Arbroath, Scotland, May 28.—A. H. Padgham, young British professional, and Horton Smith, Missourian, shared the lead yesterday at the end of the second day's play of a thirty-hole hole-in-one tournament at Elliott, played as preliminary to the British open. Padgham added a par-breaking 53 to his 57 of Tuesday for a thirty-hole total of 110, with Smith only able to get a 56 to add to his par 54. The American was bunkered at three holes to lose the margin he gained in the first day's play.

Gene Sarazen, former United States open champion, who shared the lead with Smith, and the Scotsman, W. A. McLeod, Tuesday, took a 59 to fall back on even terms at 113 with a golfing buddy, Johnny Farrell, also a former United States open king. Sarazen twice missed putts of two feet to send his score mounting.

FATE
PLAYS STRANGE TRICKS ON MEN IN CAMPELTY SHOW KILLING TWO

Many are the strange tales told of the squared ring. One of the strangest is the story of young Johnny Paladino of St. Louis, Mo. Johnny and Jack Richards, another boxer, were invited to put on a show at a benefit for the family of Bill Kadinski who had been injured in a fight and died of concussion of the brain.

Paladino and Richards fought three rounds and then a fourth to break a tie decision. After the bout Paladino returned home apparently none the worse. The next morning a doctor was summoned to the Paladino home, and later Johnny died, apparently from injuries received in the fight.

Final Acceptances For English Derby Show Classy Field

One of the finest races in history forecast at Epsom Downs on June 3; Cameronian, Favorite, Faces Brilliant Field; Open Race Indicated; Race Is Over Old Course of a Mile and a Half; Jockeys Announced To-day

Epsom Downs, Eng., May 28—Thirty-one horses are ready to start in the one hundred forty-eighth renewal of the Derby of June 3. The 1931 running of the Blue Riband of the turf, first decided in 1780, should provide one of the finest races in the long roster for all the best of last season's two-year-olds are fit and ready to start.

J. A. Dewar's good colt Cameronian, by Pharos, out of Una Cameron, rules public favorite at 4 to 1. He won the classic Two Thousand Guineas at Newmarket in April. Subsequent races in which the public have been able to get a line on the other Derby aspirants, however, seem to indicate an open race, and at the moment the Derby situation is pretty complicated.

Cameronian will meet in the Derby a group of horses who were brilliant two-year-olds last season. These include Marshall Field's Jacopo, who was favorite throughout the winter, but has come under a cloud within the last few weeks, and Dr. Dolittle, another good two-year-old of 1929, who roused Jacopo recently. There is also the French Goyecass, who finished second to Cameronian in the first classic after getting a poor start.

The Derby is run over the old course of about a mile and a half, half a mile longer than the Two Thousand Guineas. With the jockeys named to-day, the following are the probable starters with the jockeys and owners: Abbot's Worthy, Ingham, V. T. Thompson; Apperley, Weston, J. P. Hornum; Armagnac, Ferryman, Anthony de Rothschild; Cameronian, Freddy Fox, J. A. Dewar; Carmelita, Lane, Sir Charles Pulley; Cherry Lay, Richardson, T. W. Blenkinsop; Coldstream, C. Richards, Lord Glanely; Dr. Dolittle, H. Beasley, A. P. Basset; Edith Duff, Canale, Lieut.-Col. Walter Guinness; Callini, Taylor, Sir Edward Hammer; Goyecass, Elliott, M. Marcel Boussac; Brindley, Fidler, J. W. Hay; Herbert, R. Childs, Marshall Field; Klatere, Nolan, B. Davis; Knoloma, Margot, Robert Kahn; Lemonit, J. Leach; E. M. Sykes; Lightning Bolt, Marshall, J. B. Leight; Link Boy, Steve Donoghue, W. M. G. Singer; Orpen, Jones, Sir John Rutherford; Pomeroy, D'As, Comte de Ferrol; Pommery, C. A. Beary, H. H. Asa Khan; Primatif, Pat Donoghue, M. M. ELKS DEFEAT EAGLES 10-2 IN SLOW GAME

Senior Baseball League Leaders Find Little Trouble Beating Tailenders Eagles Have Eight Errors Chalked Up Against Them; Colgate Pitches Well

Collecting ten hits off Pat Cornwall and aided by eight errors on the part of their opponents, the Elks, leaders of the Senior Amateur Baseball League, defeated the Eagles 10 to 2 at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening. The antlered tribe hit the ball in great fashion, crashing out five extra base clouts, including three-baggers by Minnis and Bowden.

Teddy Colgate, young recruit hurler of the Elks, turned in a fine performance, holding the Eagles to six scattered blows, while he struck out four. Cornwall whiffed a like number. Colgate was given excellent support by his teammates, while Cornwall suffered the opposite fate. Colgate shutout the Eagles until the ninth when he weakened to allow them four hits that were good for two runs.

Jack Morgan, hard-hitting Elks' third baseman, led the hitters with two out of three times at bat. The Elks grabbed a one-run lead in the first inning. Dunn led off with a walk. Minnis attempted to sacrifice Dunn to second with a bunt but the latter was thrown out. Cornwall to Brouseau. Forbes was safe when his fly dropped behind shortstop with nobody making a play for the ball. Minnis racing to second. Morgan walked. Cornwall also worked Cornwall for a free passage to force home Minnie. MacKenzie fled to Gandy in left field and Forbes was thrown out at the plate trying to score after the ball was caught, the outfielder making a perfect throw to the plate.

ELKS SCORE FOUR
In the third the Elks went on a scoring spree and when they finished had driven in four more runs to practically sew up the game. Minnis opened the rally with a three-base crash to right centre and scored when Forbes laced the ball to practically the same spot for two bases. Morgan was given his second walk of the game. Cummins was safe on Nex's error at third base, and the bags were all occupied. MacKenzie singled to right field and when Dunn led the ball go through his legs it went for a three-bagger, clearing the sacks and letting in three runs. Belcher fled to Love. Bowden grounded to Cornwall and Colgate struck out to retire the side. Three errors played a big part in

FREE SPEECH IS DISCUSSED BY COMMONS

Woodsworth Amendment to Criminal Code Talked Out;
Toronto in Limelight

Ottawa, May 28.—One again the Commons debated proposed amendments to those clauses of the Criminal Code dealing with unlawful assemblies, and once again the bill was "talked out." During the hour devoted to private members discussed Tuesday evening, members discussed the amendment bill sponsored by J. S. Woodsworth, Labor member for Winnipeg North Centre.

Discussion, humorous at times, centered around the city of Toronto and the opposition of the police commission of that city to certain kinds of gatherings. Samuel Factor, Liberal member for Toronto West Centre, admitted it was difficult to rent a hall in the city of Toronto for the expression of theories not shared in by the majority of citizens of that city. He felt the time was coming when the functions of the Toronto police commissioners would be changed.

PUBLIC DISCUSSIONS
The Woodsworth amendment would provide that nothing in the Criminal Code restrict or interfere with the assembly of all persons peacefully to assemble for the purpose of discussing any matter of public interest. Such persons so assembled would not become an unlawful assembly by reason of speech.

Angus MacInnis, Labor, Vancouver South, said the police commissions in various Canadian cities, especially Toronto, had "suspended the Criminal Code and made rules and regulations of their own" regarding unlawful assemblies.

"In Toronto," the Laborite proceeded, "the only people who are honest must hold the views of the police commission." He went on to say E. J. Garland, U.F.A. member for Bow River, had been invited to Toronto to address the Canadian Club and the Fellowship of Reconciliation. The first meeting had been held as scheduled, but the latter had not. "The privileges of the latter association were interfered with and also those of Mr. Garland," he said.

MISS MACPHAIL SPEAKS
She was one of those prevented from addressing a meeting under the auspices of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, said Miss Agnes MacPhail, Progressive, Grey South-East, Ont. Apparently the Toronto police considered her a dangerous person, she said. So many things had been said against Toronto, declared A. A. Hepp, Labor, Winnipeg North, he was tempted to go to the defence of his city. There must be some feeling for free speech in Toronto, because when he had attended a play by George Bernard Shaw there recently, Premier G. S. Henry had been in the audience, as well as Sir William Mulock, Chief Justice of the province.

Live Toads On Empress Liner Had Ocean Trip

Withstood Nine-day Voyage
From Yokohama Very Well and Proved Source of Entertainment for Passengers
Aboard Ss. Empress of Russia, Here on Monday; Will Be Used for Biological Purposes in Medical Schools.

Several big cases of live toads, containing about 300 of the agile reptiles, passed through Victoria yesterday morning aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia from some of the famous toad farms in China and Japan. Every once in a while these farmers make periodical contributions to the advancement of western science, for the toads are used for biological purposes on this continent.

The toads came through the 4,300 mile voyage across the Pacific Ocean on the liner very well, they even seemed to enjoy the unusual experience of sailing on an ocean giant, passengers say. They made the trip unharmed in well-ventilated boxes, packed with earth. They had special attendants to look after them. Although they were not fed from the time they left Yokohama, because then they might become excited, they were watered frequently through the trip and kept as clean as possible. The toads were taken from the Empress of Russia looking forward to their daily visit to the toads on one of the lower decks. At first it was intended to keep the shipment quiet, but the news that there were live toads aboard soon leaked out, as everything in the way of news does aboard a ship at sea, and before long the passengers from all classes wandered along lower decks in search of the toads. The attendants, when they found their secret had been discovered, willingly displayed their "cargo" every morning for the nine days the ship was at sea.

The shipment was handled out of Vancouver over Canadian Pacific express to Indianapolis, where they will be distributed to medical schools and laboratories throughout the continent.

Ottawa, May 28.—The body of Magistrate Hume was found in the Ottawa River yesterday afternoon. He disappeared on May 24, leaving a note that he intended to take his own life.

I'M ALONE NOTE DRAFTED IN U.S.

Washington Says Canada Has
No Damage Claim as Ship
Was Owned in U.S.

New York, May 28.—A special dispatch to The New York Times from Washington says: "The demand of Canada for damages for the sinking by the coastguard of the rum-running schooner I'm Alone 200 miles off the Louisiana Coast on March 22, 1920, will be met by the United States with the contention the vessel was in reality United States-owned and that no just cause lies for a damage claim."

TO BE PUBLISHED IN JUNE
The United States note in reply to the Canadian bill of particulars has been completed by former Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, the American agent, and is being printed. It will probably be delivered by the American legation in Ottawa to the Canadian Government about June 10 for transmission to J. E. Reid, the Canadian agent, and Mr. Justice Lyman P. Duff, the Canadian arbitrator in the proceedings.

Whether the Canadian Government will drop the case as a result of the American contention is problematical, but is believed a rebuttal will be filed, particularly as the Canadian bill of particulars and argument that the United States coastguard acted illegally did not go into the ownership question.

"Canada did not ask a specific sum in damages, leaving that for Justice Duff and Justice Van Devanter, the American arbitrator, to determine."

PRECEDENTS QUOTED
The American reply is fortified with precedents holding that with the particulars of the vessel held in the United States, there is no cause for damages.

"The United States has not disclosed its proof of American ownership of the I'm Alone, but it has been asserted the ship was owned in the Danzig Hogan liquor ring of New York through a dummy corporation."

Prince Edward Branch Gathers
The Prince Edward branch (No. 91, Canadian Legion, were hosts on Saturday evening to the largest gathering of ex-service men ever brought together in this district. More than seventy being present from Colwood, Langford, Metepoon, Rocky Point and surrounding neighborhoods.

With Comrade R. A. Pennington, the president of the branch, in the chair, the evening was enjoyably spent in entertainment and speeches.

Especially invited guests included: Comrade J. Food, president of Pro Patria branch, Comrade Dempster, president of Britannia branch; Comrade Stone, zone representative; Comrade Sedge, soldier advocate, and Comrade H. Despard Twigg, M.L.A. Each speaker covered a particular section of the legion's activities, while Comrade Twigg, in a masterly speech, illustrated the analogy between England as the Mother Country binding the Empire together in a kind of world distaste, and the legion uniting those throughout the world who serve in His Majesty's forces. Comrade A. C. Mackie, D.C.M., past president of the branch, traced the history of the branch from its formation to the present time, and Mr. Moore, a winter visitor from Swift Current, gave an able talk on unity.

Those contributing to the lighter side of the programme were W. G.

Milstead and Comrades Smedley, Simpson, Swinton, Bapty and Bobbie Brown. Comrade Wihart brought his bagpipes along and Comrade Pennington officiated at the piano and led the chorus singing, without which a function such as this is not complete. It is proposed to hold a similar gathering in the fall.

Keating

Mrs. Alex Sutherland presided at the monthly meeting of the South Saanich Women's Institute held in the Temperance Hall.

Correspondence read by the secretary, Mrs. C. L. Styan, included letters of thanks from Mrs. W. McNally and family for flowers sent in their recent bereavement, and from Mrs. T. Michell for flowers while a patient in hospital. Arrangements are being made to hold a picnic at Island View Beach in July. The usual donation of two crates of strawberries will be sent to the solarium.

It was decided to cancel the June meeting on account of the busy season. Mr. George of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, gave an interesting address on buying Canadian-made products.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. C. L. Styan, Mrs. F. Young, Mrs. W. D. Michell, Misses Ona Young and Alice Styan.

At the monthly meeting of the South Saanich Farmers' Institute J. Travis, of the Department of Agriculture, was the speaker of the evening, giving an interesting address on "Noxious Weeds and Their Control." Specimens were shown of the most dangerous weeds to stop, namely, the wild parsnip and hemlock, also the sow and Canadian thistles.

It was announced that the strawberry crop competition will be judged the latter part of this week, and the winners will be judged about ten days later.

The mixed grain competition, for selling or silage, will be judged about June 1 and July 1, according to the maturity of the crop.

A resolution was received from the Royal Oak Women's Institute requesting an interesting address on "Noxious Weeds and Their Control." A speaker give an address on trapping.

The Census of Canada 1931

In the opening weeks of June every family and every home in Canada will be visited by a representative of the Government for the great national purpose of taking the seventh census of Canada.

The census is really a stocktaking. That is, it provides the information to enable the Government and others interested in the development of the country to formulate progressive policies for the happiness, comfort and prosperity of our people.

All the information supplied is strictly confidential, and the officers of the Government are subject to severe penalty if they disclose any of the information which is given to them by residents in the country, to any other than the Government.

Furthermore, it has nothing whatever to do with taxation, or military service, or compulsory school attendance, or immigration, or any such matter; and the Government itself cannot use it except for statistical totals.

The Government representative will put the same questions to all, and it is your duty as a resident of this country to answer promptly and truthfully. The Government is very anxious to avoid forcing anyone to answer these questions, but it is empowered to do so in the few cases where individuals may refuse.

W HAMILTON STATION OPENED

R. Terminal Building Scene of Ceremony

Canadian Press

Hamilton, Ont., May 28.—Hamilton's largest station was officially opened yesterday when the doors of the new Canadian National Railway terminal and admitted waiting dignitaries with a gold key.

W. A. Kingsland, general manager of the C.N.R., Toronto, presented the Governor-General with the key while a large crowd watched the ceremony.

The new station is the third built by the Canadian National Railway and its predecessor companies in Hamilton. The pioneer Great Western constructed the first Hamilton station in 1854 and followed with a second some twenty-two years later.

Talus, the Greek, is said to have invented the saw from having once found the jawbone of a snake, which he employed to cut through a small piece of wood.

Tornado Throws Train Off Tracks, Killing One

Fargo, North Dakota, Scene of Disaster When 12 Cars Hurled Over on Sides

Fargo, N.D., May 28.—Swirling down without warning, a tornado flipped the Great Northern's luxurious "Empire Builder" from the rails near here yesterday, and hurled twelve coaches on their sides, killing one passenger and injuring more than a score of others.

Passengers were showered with glass as windows of the coaches shattered under the thrust of the wind. A moment later the cars were swept from the tracks and hurled to the ground.

A near panic ensued as screams of injured women and children and shouts of the men added to the turmoil. Trainmen and many of the male passengers rushed about frantically, extricating women and children and others from the wreckage.

A. Anderson of Montevideo, Wash., was the person killed. He was hurled through a window and ground to death under a following coach. Edward Brandt, conductor in charge of the train, was dazed by the wreck, as were many of the passengers.

A farmer was reported killed north of Moorhead, Minn., by the twister, and several buildings were demolished. Telegraph and telephone lines were down and roads impassable because of the heavy rain which followed.

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—From the rear platform of another train, Den E. Lyons, general counsel for the Northern Pacific Railroad, witnessed devastation wrought by the tornado which later wrecked the Great Northern Railroad's Empire Builder.

Lyons was a passenger on a Northern Pacific train which left Moorhead, Minn., yesterday, ahead of the Empire Builder and missed being hit by the fatal tornado. He described the rear platform of his train as "like a box seat at a baseball game."

"A basketball summoned the passengers to the rear platform," Lyons said. "To watch what he called 'a big blow coming up.' We saw a greenish black cloud hanging over the country a few miles west of us."

"The cloud seemed to hover close to the ground, not moving very fast. It sort of hedge-hopped along and we saw clouds of dust swirl through the air and then earth was sucked into the funnel."

"It headed for a group of farm buildings, dipped low and hurled the barn skyward. Planks and pieces of roofing were hurled about hundreds of yards away. Other passengers said the house too was demolished. Cattle scattered away and the cloud rose. It was a question then whether it would strike a grove of trees."

"Just as it seemed it would be missed, every tree was leveled. I can't vouch for that, but other passengers vow it's so."

"We didn't think of the Empire Builder then. The cloud sort of circled behind us and cut toward the Great Northern tracks, about three miles away."

"The brakeman at the time remarked, 'She's heading right for the Empire Builder.'"

"He was right, though at the time he didn't know it. A few minutes later the Empire Builder was off the track, swept out of the path of the greenish-black cloud."

St. Paul, Minn., May 28.—A train running away from a tornado was described to-day by Thomas E. Clark St. Paul, conductor of the North Coast Limited, Northern Pacific passenger train.

He gave the engineer the "dynamite signal" to get away in a hurry. The train missed the tornado by a quarter of a minute in Clark's estimate. A few minutes later the twister howled the Great Northern's crack train, "Empire Builder," from the track, killing one and injuring more than a score.

The North Coast Limited pulled into Duluth, Minn., a minute later. When Clark espied the funnel-shaped cloud sweeping toward them.

"I yelled to the engineer, 'to hurry up, let's get out of here,' followed it up with the dynamite signal."

"Barrett didn't waste a second. In no time he had that train going more than sixty miles an hour. Just as we got out of the path of the tornado, it struck, and I saw it wreck a barn."

Ninety passengers were on the Northern Pacific train.

ORIENT SHIP IS DELAYED

President Cleveland Taking Madison's Place and Will Arrive Late Next Week

The American Mail liner President Madison, due here from the Orient next Tuesday, has been diverted from the Far East to California and New York and her place is being taken by the liner President Cleveland, which, however, has been delayed in port across the Pacific, and will not arrive in Victoria until the end of next week.

This information was received in Victoria this morning from Seattle headquarters of the company by W. M. Allan, local agent.

Exact date of arrival here of the President Cleveland is not yet known as up to yesterday morning she had not sailed from Yokohama. It will probably be Friday or Saturday of next week, or possibly later, before the President Cleveland puts in an appearance at this port.

Out bound to ports in Japan, China and the Philippine Islands, the liner President Madison will sail from Victoria at 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon with a fair list of passengers from all parts of the continent and a capacity cargo of northwest products and overland freight. She will sail from Seattle at 11 o'clock in the morning and will arrive at Rithet piers here at 4 o'clock in the afternoon to spend two hours before proceeding to sea.

Princess Louise To Take Excursion To Seattle Next Week

Everything at present augurs well for the success of the excursion which will be taken from Victoria to Seattle and return next Wednesday by the C.P.R. coast steamer Princess Louise which has been chartered for the occasion by the Junior Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital. Already many tickets have been sold and it is expected that the ship will have about 1,000 passengers for the jaunt. All that is now needed to make the trip a success is the co-operation of Old Sol and it is predicted that it will shine brightly on the morning of the King's birthday.

The Princess Louise will leave the Belleville Street docks at 6:30 o'clock in the morning and will arrive in Seattle shortly after noon. Five hours will be given the excursionists in the Sound city before the return trip to Victoria is commenced. Arrival at Victoria in the evening is scheduled for about 10 o'clock.

Declares New Empress Finest Liner Afloat

Viscount Rothermere High in Praise of Empress of Britain, Writing From New Ship, Now in Atlantic on Maiden Voyage to Canada; Hard to Believe One Is Afloat Because of Spaciousness of Public Rooms and Lack of Vibration

By VISCOUNT ROTHERMERE

On board the Empress of Britain at sea, May 28.—The huge white sides of the Empress of Britain loomed above the cliffs of Dover. Except for a narrow band of blue, this new bride of the north Atlantic is of spotless white from stem to stern. Much as I had read about the spaciousness and beauty of the Empress of Britain, the reality still came as a surprise. With a fairly wide experience of the world's big ships, I have no hesitation in describing her as the finest vessel ever launched.

The breadth of the paneled corridors and the size of her sumptuous public rooms make it difficult to remember one is afloat. Many a London flat is smaller than the suite in which I am crossing the Atlantic.

We came down a splendidly brilliant sunlit and off the end of the Isle of Wight seaplanes kept circling overhead. Close behind us came the White Star liner Olympic, and she and we passed around the stern of H.M.S. Iron Duke, lying at anchor in Cowes Roads.

It was a memorable sight to watch the Olympic, the largest ship ever built in Great Britain, and the Empress of Britain, largest ship built to trade between two empire ports, lowering their ensigns in salute to the most historic battleship in the British navy, which carried the flag of the commander-in-chief at the battle of Jutland.

LACK OF VIBRATION

Everyone is remarking with relief on the conspicuous absence of vibration. The engine room beneath our feet 63,000 horsepower is being generated to turn the largest propellers ever made, weighing twenty-five and one-half tons each. Yet on one lays a hand on the deck it is only just possible to detect a faint tremor, hardly more noticeable than that in which the floors of London houses on busy streets are kept all day by the passing motor traffic.

E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and one of the outstanding figures in present-day empire development, is on board. He has every right to feel proud of the wonderful new ship which his company has added to its ocean service. The Empress of Britain is the greatest steamship and railway enterprise in the world. By speeding up inter-imperial communication as it is doing by launching its latest ship, Empress of Japan and Empress of Australia, it is rendering a splendid service to the whole British commonwealth of nations.

The National Committee on Utilization of Wood has just made available through the United States Department of Commerce a pamphlet on "How to Judge a House."

From the point of view of health, there are many factors concerned in judging a house that are ordinarily given little thought by the person who is purchasing a home or building one. Too often the decision is made on the color of the paint, the size of the windows, or the disposition of the neighbors.

Far more important from the point of view of livability is the plumbing, the exposure to the atmosphere and the ventilation. The gutter and down spouts are greatly concerned with the prevention of dampness, because wrong construction or deterioration will mean that rain will pour into the house and down the sides rather than being conveyed to the ground or to the sewer.

If the house has no cellar, some provision must be made for adequate ventilation underneath the house. The living room and the kitchen should provide for sufficient gradual sloping to make unlikely the possibility of accident. The living room ought to get plenty of sunlight, but the windows need not be so light that the light will be glaring. The study and playroom for the children should also have plenty of light and good ventilation.

The refrigeration, if by ice, must provide for living the ice put in from the outside and at the same time not demand too many steps from the kitchen to the icebox by the person who is responsible for the cooking.

Chimneys should also be inspected for fire hazard before purchasing a house already built and standing for some time. A house with light plaster work will require less artificial light than a house that is decorated in dark colors. Clothes closets must be sufficiently insect proof to permit the control of moths.

The modern home demands hot water at any time, proper drainage for carrying off household waste, water sealed traps against sewer gas, laundry tubs that are water tight and many other refinements of plumbing.

In its pamphlet on the subject, the Department of Commerce provides a check list so that a person inspecting a house before purchase can carefully indicate the various points of improvement and refinements and thus have in conception as to what the house will require in order to make it safe, healthful and economical.

N. Y. Market Analysis

The Wall Street Journal to-day says: "Although many interests are waiting for a selling climax on which to purchase stocks it is possible that the market for certain issues may be entering a zone in which these shares will be accumulated for a long pull. Inoperative observers are not yet willing to advise extensive accumulation even in the issues which have a good record for the past and on which the prospects seem to be improving. They are waiting for evidence of important banking and industrial buying before adopting the long side on a big scale."

"Meanwhile, those who continue to talk of a selling climax emphasize the fact that so many are looking for a sharp drop to give them a favorable opportunity for long-term purchases. They point out that the steady shrinkage in values in recent sessions when selling was small were most disturbing and discouraging because it is the new that some of the subsequent rallies were due to covering by shorts as a result of the stock exchange questionnaires they are still holding back. They are still holding back. The popular view is that the new questionnaire is direct aim at the bears in an effort to check raids against individual stocks."

"Stop loss orders played a prominent part in the selling during the decline recently and they are coming into vogue again among conservatives. Attention is called to the sharp break which occurred on last Monday as indicating the wisdom of protecting accounts with long holdings. Observers here customers were among the buyers in the past few days were urging again to safeguard their positions with stops placed slightly under the new Monday on the theory that if the market breaks through this range will go still lower before a supporting level is reached and established firmly."

EXPORT COPPER CUT

New York May 28 (By Associated Press)—A reduction of a quarter of a cent a pound to-day brought the price of export copper to 62½ cents a pound. I.P. European base price, and the west level in more than thirty-five years. The cut brought the foreign price to parity with the domestic level of 62½ cents a pound, the price at which customers have been offering the metal for several days.

Babson Makes New Forecast On Stocks And Bond Trends

Boston, May 28.—Roger Babson, noted economist and market statistician, has issued the following to his clients: "The following is a forecast of the present financial situation: 'The advance in high-grade bonds in reflection of widespread features and doubts to-day. During the early stages of the depression period, banks and investors should buy only the highest grade bonds. These are the ones which advance in price in such times, because money rates are declining and because loss of confidence causes people to put funds in the most conservative investment.'

"During the latter part of a depression era, however, banks and investors should sell their high-grade bonds and buy second-grade issues. Reason—As business improves and money rates firm, the price of the best-grade bonds declines, while second-grade issues, which offer more attractive yields, begin to advance in price as confidence strengthens."

"Believing that we are now in the late stages of the depression period, in spite of prolonged pessimism, we strongly urge the selection of sound, second-grade issues, while yields are signals set for better bond activity."

"These conditions are particularly favorable to rising bond prices. The Federal Reserve discount rate at 1½ per cent is the lowest in the history of the system and this drop is a clear indication that Federal Reserve authorities intend to keep money rates low. Money on the average to-day is as cheap as at any time this century and some types of loans can be obtained at the lowest cost since 1894. We are of the opinion that it will not be long before such favorable money conditions give definite impetus to sound bonds."

"Another factor—As people gradually begin to feel better they will first turn to bonds, rather than to stocks. Once returning courage begins to assert itself, we expect to see a good bond market well into the business recovery period."

"The stock market is still under the influence of the bears. Although fundamental business conditions are in the past few days have begun again to safeguard their positions with stops placed slightly under the new Monday on the theory that if the market breaks through this range will go still lower before a supporting level is reached and established firmly."

All Efforts to Peg Quotations Now Reported to Have Been Given Up

New York, May 28.—No further attempt to peg the price of copper will be made by producers, an official of one of the world's largest mining companies indicated to-day. Instead the price will be left to drift, whence it may until the weaker producers are eliminated.

This new attitude has been brought about by failure of the world-wide cartel agreement of last November to appreciably increase the price of the metal. Instead the price has fallen and stocks have increased. Metal was obtainable from custom smelters yesterday at $14 a pound delivered, against $16 when negotiations for the cartel agreement started, and a maximum of $12 a pound shortly after it was signed.

The drop in the price of the metal to the lowest level since 1924 is said to be due largely to the falling off in industrial demand. The agreement of American producers to cut output by approximately 30 per cent has been kept by the larger companies, while the Katanga mines in Africa, also included in the agreement, are understood to have kept up their end by reducing output by about 10 per cent. At the time the agreement was made, certain large American producers said privately that the reduction was not enough.

BELOIAN PRODUCERS HERE

Strength was added to the statement that no further agreement will be made by the presence in New York of Emil Piat and Camille Guit, the Belgian officials in control of the Katanga Copper Mines in Africa. It was made known that the Belgians have been leading officials of Kennecott Copper and Anaconda Copper, and that while practically all persons concerned in making the international agreement are available, there is little desire to increase the cartel agreement. Instead, a person high in the industry said that American producers were now inclined to discount the statements of Katanga officials regarding their low production costs, and are more inclined to compete than to barter.

Reserve plans in the Katanga of 1930 output at the quoted price of $18 a pound, and Anaconda's known to be exceptionally large, while both have mines from which they can obtain metal at a cost as low as 50 cents a pound, thereby averaging down their production costs in their higher-priced mines which they also are keeping in operation. Neither company has indicated any intention of increasing production in violation of the November agreement. They believe industrial conditions will bring the desired result.

Kennecott now produces copper at approximately 60 cents a pound at the Utah Copper Company mines, which it controls, while Anaconda has low-priced mines in the Andes Copper Company, both in South America. Anaconda is still operating comparatively high-priced mines in Butte, Montana, district, where it has other industries built around its mines. Closing of the mines would mean a tremendous industrial loss.

Neither Kennecott, Anaconda, International Nickel nor any of the other large American producers are selling metal at $16 a pound. The amount sold at this price so far has been very small, and the sales have been made by independent producers, many of whom are taking a loss in order to keep their mines in operation. The large producers are selling at 50 cents a pound. Anaconda is able to sell a large portion of its output at the quoted price of $18 a pound, and Kennecott is known to be exceptionally large, while both have Kennecott sells part of its output to Chase Brass Company, a subsidiary. The present dilemma of the copper industry, according to an official, was brought about by the pegging of the price at 16 a pound and the sale at even higher prices during the boom years. Many abandoned mines were reopened by independent producers. International Nickel developed and started production in a large new mine in Canada.

The worst is not yet over from a production standpoint, it was said. Three large new mines are due to open in Africa within the next year, including Roan Antelope, Rhokana and N'kana, all of which have large potential producing capacity, and most of which were started when prices were at or near the peak.

Can a Wife Reform a Slovenly Husband?—Have Women the Advantage Over Men in Modern Civilization?—Why an International Marriage Can Be Happy

NEAR MISS LOOK—Can you do with a man who has slumped in his appearance since he was married? My husband has got so he is actually fat and looks like a tramp. Her uncult and straggling over his coat collar.

Shoes look as if they ever saw a shine. Shirt mussey and cuffs black with dirt. Tie half tied and never straight. I work in an office all day and make the living at present, as my husband is unemployed, and I wash and iron his shirts at night, but he won't put on a clean one. I would not have married, or been interested, in a man who goes as my husband goes now if he had looked like that before marriage. Why don't men realise that it is as necessary to keep themselves looking attractive to their wives as it is to the wives to keep themselves looking good to their husbands?

WIPE.

ANSWER: Goodness knows. Perhaps it is an excess of masculine vanity that makes a man think that he is so handsome, anyway, that he doesn't need to doll himself up to look good to his wife, and that she can't keep from being fascinated with him even if he does show that he needs to be run through the laundry.

Of course, no man would expect to stay in love with a wife who was untidy and messy and who cried aloud for soap and water, and who appeared before him in sloppy kimonos and down-at-the-heel slippers. Most men even consider that for a wife to get fat and blowy is sufficient excuse for their losing their taste for them.

But they think it is different with a man. They consider he is a romantic figure in his wife's eyes, even when he is sitting around the house in his stocking feet, and with a three days' stubble of beard on his face. And it would shock the average husband to death to find out that his wife had to shut her eyes to his three chins and his bay-window and remember how good and kind he was to stay in love with him.

Why men think that they don't have to keep themselves looking attractive to their wives is past comprehension, for they all know that women set a great deal more store on appearances than men do, and are more sensitive to the appeal that good clothes make.

The only woman that I have ever known who dealt successfully with this sloppy-husband problem was one who was married to a man who agreed to co-operate with her to the extent of putting on in the morning the clothes that she laid out for him. So every night when he went to bed she removed the garments that he had worn that day and put in their stead clean linen, freshly polished shoes and newly pressed clothes.

She said that she found it less wearing to clean and press his clothes than argue with him about it, and that this arrangement saved all friction and nagging and enabled her to send into the world a husband of whom she was proud instead of a scarecrow of whom she would have been ashamed.

Perhaps if you can make your husband realize that one of the reasons that he is out of work and finds it impossible to get a job is because of his appearance, you can make him brace up. As he is now he looks the down-and-outer and no one will believe in his ability so long as he looks an utter failure.

The world makes a snap judgment of us, based on the way we look. If we're well dressed and appear prosperous, it gives us credit for the ability to succeed, but if we are shabby and dirty it rates us as failures, and no one wants to hire a failure or do business with him.

Also our clothes have a lot to do with our own morale. It has been said that a well-fitting coat is more moral support than the strongest religious principles, and there is a deal of truth in this. To know that we are well dressed gives us a poise that nothing else does, and cleanliness is first aid to self-respect. The first thing that one of the societies for trying to rehabilitate men and restore their belief in themselves and make them self-supporting is to give them good shoes.

Probably the reason your husband has begun to neglect his personal appearance is because he is out of work and discouraged. Tell him if he will clean up he will stand a better chance of getting work.

DEAR MISS DIX—What do you think about marriage between people of different nationalities? A French girl with an English boy, for instance? Is there more chance of happiness when people are of the same nationality?

UNDECIDED.

ANSWER:
Generally speaking, the more people are alike in tastes, habits, customs and point of view, the more apt they are to be happily married. Congeniality is the one indispensable quality to a successful marriage.

The things husbands and wives quarrel over are not principles but prejudices. It is because one wants to go one way and the other goes the other way that drives them apart. As long as both want to do the same things and enjoy the same things and think alike about the same things everything is pleasant and harmonious.

Therefore, husbands and wives who are of the same nationality and who have been brought up in the same traditions stand a better chance of being happy than if they married aliens. But this is not always the case, and there are thousands of successful marriages between people of different nationalities.

So there is no reason for a French girl not to marry her English sweetheart they are personally congenial.

Little Trips Into Nature

GARDEN SPIDERS

GARDEN SPIDERS

In a single day, a garden spider has been known to spin sixty feet of thread. At this rate such a spider would spin 1,800 feet in a month.

Some garden spiders (but not all of them) spin new webs each day. In this way they replace webs injured the day before. What do you suppose they do with the old thread? Often they eat it! That is a good old Spanish custom which has no doubt been followed in the spider world for thousands of years.

more round and round to form a spiral figure.

Old garden spiders commonly make their webs after sunset.

A spider web is sticky, and an insect becomes tangled up after brushing into it. The spider rushes to the spot to bite the captive. Usually the insect does not pull the thread but makes a weak and useless effort.

The spider spins a thread around the victim and hauls it to a hiding place.

Some spiders lie in wait at the centre of the web, but others hide in a den a short distance away. Between
